Moscow Says All-Out Effort On Finnish-German Front Being Made

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, April 28.—Pushing their all-out effort to knock Finland out of the war before the advent of spring thaws on the far northern front, Russian forces today poured into a new gap pierced in the lines of the harassed Finnish-German armies of Lapland.

Although official reports were lacking in details about the fighting, observers pointed out that the Red army was apparently entering the same sectors from which the final, successful Russian drive was launched against the Finns two years ago, after advancing beyond the Finnish border that existed before that war.

Hitler Is Disturbed
An indication that Adolf Hitler is disturbed over the situation in the Lapland area was seen in a dispatch from Stockholm which reported that General Engelbrecht had been relieved of his command on the Finnish front and transferred to another sector because of recent reverses suffered by his troops.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Roosevelt's suggestion for a $25,000 limitation on individual income met with unfavorable reaction among members of the house ways and means committee today as the group resumed work on the $7,600,000 tax bill.

Chairman Doughton (D-N. C.) said frankly that he did not believe the committee would hold hearings on the proposal at the present time and other members were equally reluctant to embrace such a drastic suggestion.

Although desirous of prohibiting the creation of "war millionaires" and opposed to excessive corporation salaries paid from war profits, members were fearful of "economic repercussions" which might result from a flat limitation of $25,000.

Believe R.A.F. Attacks Force Nazis To Shift Planes From Russia

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIG

Written Especially for International News Service

Britain's RAF last night continued its all-out air war on Nazi Germany with savage attacks on Cologne, great industrial and synthetic center on the Rhine. The British air campaign has now lasted for more than a month almost continuously, with attacks coming sometimes at the rate of two or three in 24 hours. Announced purpose of this vast war of raids from the sky is to aid Russia by demoralizing Nazi industrial production and forcing the denel coasts reverberated with the throb of engines and shell explosions.

Cathedral cities in both Germany and England suffered.

The Royal Air Force went after Cologne on the banks of the Rhine, equally famed for its war industries and its churches, while the Luftwaffe bombed Norwich in East Anglia.

There was no diminution in the volume and intensity of British raids on the Reich, although official admission was made that 17 R. A. F. bombers were lost during (Continued On Page Two)

Estimate 100 Killed In Oklahoma Tornado

By KENNETH MILLER

PRYOR, Okla., April 28.—Digging from the ruins of a disastrous tornado which killed an estimated 100 persons, injured upwards of 750 others and caused $2,000,000 property damage, this war boom city of Pryor today embarked immediately upon a program of rehabilitation.

"It was a terrible tragedy," said Mayor Tom Harrison, "but we are going to rebuild at once with government assistance, which already has been promised us. We have suffered severely, but we can take it."

Rescue Crews At Work

Even before dawn, while rescue crews still were digging in great piles of debris, shattered timbers, and twisted girders in search for additional victims, the work of restoration began.

Guards and workmen from the huge new ordnance plant near Pryor, whose construction added thousands to the population of the city, began clearing the debris-choked streets.

'Flying Tigers' Will Join U. S. Army Air Corps

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 28.—The world famous American volunteer group is being disbanded and its pilots have been invited to join the United States Army Air Corps. The London News Chronicle said today in a delayed dispatch from A. V. G. headquarters in Burma.

It is believed that regular U. S. Air Corps squadrons will replace the "Flying Tigers," the article, dated April 22, disclosed.

Col. Claire L. Chennault, commander of the A. V. G., was summoned into active service from the Army Air Corps retired list, but he said he would refuse to take charge of a U. S. Air Corps pursuit squadron because American military authorities had not replied to his suggestion that he take the A. V. G. to Australia, the dispatch said.

"I fought the Japs for years without the aid of the United States and Britain, and I can go on fighting them alone," he was quoted as saying.

Many of the A. V. G. pilots were reported to be planning vacations in the United States prior to joining the Army Air Corps.

Sir Stafford Cripps Reports To House Of Commons On India Problem

SAYS U. S. HAD NO PART IN CONFERENCE

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 28.—Debate on the India situation was opened today in the House of Commons by Sir Stafford Cripps.

Sir Stafford, who has just returned to England after failure to gain acceptance by Indian leaders of the British plan for post-war dominion status, told the members of parliament:

"I do not think anyone in this country need feel regretful over the proposals put forward or need blame the government or British people for the unfortunate failure to reach an agreement."

Although he conferred in India with Col. Louis Johnson, envoy of President Roosevelt, Sir Stafford said that Johnson acted only in a personal capacity.

"The interviews were not of great help in clarifying the situation," said Sir Stafford, "but at no time did Johnson act otherwise than in a personal capacity."

"There was no question of American participation," he said.

Conscription Plan Approved In Canada

(International News Service)

OTTAWA, Ont., April 28.—By a smashing majority, the Canadian electorate released the government from its pledge not to conscript manpower for overseas service and gave parliament a mandate today to use any method it sees fit to raise men to fight abroad.

With the exception of Quebec where the French-speaking element fought conscription to the hilt in the 1914-18 war, the nine provinces gave an overwhelming affirmative vote in yesterday's plebiscite.

About 5-2 Proportion

Returns which had rolled in shortly after midnight from all parts of the country covering 3,000,000 of the votes cast showed the electorate favored untieing the government's hands by more than five to two. It is estimated upwards of 4,500,000 voted; but the final results will not be known before May 5 when the vote of upwards of 500,000 members of the armed forces serving abroad

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A sweeping order freezing prices of 30,000 commodities, the most drastic economic control ever imposed on the American people, was completed today by the office of Price Administration and will be revealed to the nation tonight.

The price control regulation will cover almost every article sold at wholesale or retail. Price ceilings will be set at the highest levels in March.

At the same time, Price Administrator Leon Henderson is expected to fix ceilings on rents in war production areas all over the country and order further restrictions on installment purchasing.

The far-reaching price control orders will be the curbstone of President Roosevelt's seven-point program to halt the rising cost of living. Mr. Roosevelt, himself, will make a radio speech to the nation tonight, explaining in detail his anti-inflation plans and appeal to the nation to make the sacrifices which mean a lowered standard of living.

State Transportation Plans Are Made

Program Being Put Into Shape

Mass Transportation Plan To Be Outlined In State By P. U. C.

HOPE TO AVERT NEW DIFFICULTIES

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, April 28.—The Public Utility Commission today launched a six-point program to serve as a basis for drafting a statewide plan to end mass transportation problems caused by an influx of workers to industrial and commercial centers.

Chairman John Higgins, Jr., said the commission's transportation policy "had particular reference to the obvious restrictions and limitations upon individual transportation equipment; tire and gasoline rationing and related matters."

Policy Outlined
The policy as outlined by Higgins was pledged to:
"1. Obtain the fullest possible use of all operable rail lines and equipment."

"2. Require discontinuance of bus and trolley coach services which are being provided over routes where street railway lines are or can be made operable as well as on street railway routes now being served part of the time by buses or trolley coaches."

"3. Divert passengers from present bus lines to street railway and railroad routes."

"4. Extensions of existing bus routes and inauguration of new routes shall be made only to places of defense employment and military and naval establishments where failure to provide such additional service will have a definitely unfavorable effect upon the war effort."

Group Service Curtailed

"5. Because of the war emergency, tire rationing and gasoline curtailment, all group and party service is prohibited after May 4, 1942, except for acceptable charter or special business, unless special permission is received from the commission after application is made setting forth the emergency."

"6. Acceptable charter or special business includes transportation of selectees, of groups made up principally of members of the armed forces, of participants in organized recreational activities at military posts, and school children, teachers and other school employees to and from school only."

Higgins said that public meetings will be held throughout the state to meet the particular problem in each defense area. The initial hearing will be held at Harrisburg Friday.

Siggins emphasized that the meetings will "relate particularly to the budgeting, coordination or allocation of transportation equipment to produce the greatest local operating efficiency and maximum public convenience commensurate with the national emergency."

"Of utmost importance to this end will be," he declared, "staggering of hours of employment, extension of distances between stops, rearrangement of schedules and routes; precedence of mass transportation in traffic; limitation of service primarily to the war effort; turn back service on routes to outlying districts; drastic curtailment of service in non-rush hours; and other matters of local necessity or importance."

change in these figures when the cards are sorted out and the men assigned to their proper registration board, as some men who should have been registered in the area served by Local Board Two, registered at places designated by Local Board one, and vice versa.

Due to the fact that County Boards One and Two had registration points in the outlying district, which had not been heard from as yet late this morning, their figures were not complete.

If the county boards show as big an increase as the city boards, the registration totals which were established in the first registration of 11,462 will be considerably exceeded. The first registration took place in the voting precincts and the men who registered all enrolled in their proper districts. This was not the case yesterday, as stated before, registration being conducted in places designated by the Selective Service Boards, which were not in existence yet when the first registration took place.

BRITISH NAZIS TRADE AERIAL BLOWS IN HUGE AIR RAIDS

The night's operations which embraced Norway and northern France as well as Germany itself.

Attack Battleship Berth

One of the targets attacked during the night was Trondheim Fjord in Norway, where the giant German battleship Tirpitz is berthed behind camouflage and anti-torpedo nets.

From dawn until well after noon, British planes shuttled back and forth across the channel bent on new bombing expeditions. Success of the attacks this far was clearly indicated by photographs taken in aerial reconnaissance over Rostock which showed that the main assembly sheds of the giant Heinkel aircraft factory there had been heavily damaged.

Early this afternoon, two enemy raiders crossed the southeast coast of England, only to run into a fierce barrage of anti-aircraft fire. They passed away from the coast and one appeared to have been damaged.

At almost the same time, Britain's cross-channel sorties reached their peak. Watchers along the cliffs saw a huge force sweep out toward Calais and a few moments later German anti-aircraft on the other side of the channel opened up in a fierce cannonade.

Air Ministry Communique

An air ministry communique dealing with last night's operations said:

"Seventeen of our bombers are missing. Reconnaissance has established that the main assembly sheds of the Heinkel factory (at Rostock) were damaged."

"A strong force of bombers attacked the naval base in Trondheim Fjord. Another strong force attacked objectives at Cologne and elsewhere on the Rhine in clear weather. Large fires were started."

"The dock at Dunkirk and air-dromes in occupied territory were bombed while mines were laid in enemy waters."

St. Omer was the first place in France attacked today, the air ministry said. Heavy anti-aircraft opposition was encountered but none from enemy planes. Bombs were seen to burst in the target area.

The sharp raid on Norwich, in Norfolk in east-central England, left many homeless, it was feared there would be a heavy toll of dead and injured.

In Residential Area

The Luftwaffe assault on Norwich, which gave the city its worst night in history, was concentrated on one residential area. The shopping district was damaged in addition to the home localities.

Several fires resulted from the bombing but were quickly brought under control. A brewery and a lumber yard were among the places set aflame.

Rescue workers toiled throughout the morning hunting for dead and injured among the debris.

Many persons were buried when the entrance to an underground shelter sustained a direct hit. A number of persons in the shelter were killed and wounded.

Two hospitals suffered direct hits. The planes which raided Norwich approached from the coast of Holland. They were met by fierce anti-aircraft fire when defending searchlights caught the attackers in their beams.

As the R. A. F. craft which blasted the Rhineland city of Cologne returned to their hangars, large formations of other British fighters and bombers swept across the channel to bomb vital areas in Nazi-held territory. Waves of planes began a continuous flight in the direction of northern France at 6:30 a. m.

So numerous were the R. A. F. craft that the noise of the motors awakened residents of many south coast towns long hardened to the sound of overhead aircraft.

The bursting of bombs could be heard clearly on the English side of the channel.

down fiercely and sending the mercury to unprecedented high points quiet while Nazi resources were concentrated for Hitler's much-advertised spring drive to the east.

Probably as a counter to Britain's present campaign of intensive raiding on the continent, Goering's Luftwaffe last night raided Norway, ancient cathedral and industrial city in east-central England. The intensity of the raid indicates that at least one of Germany's six or seven air armies has been transferred to airports in France and western Germany.

Different Tactics

Tactics employed by both sides in the present British-German air war sharply reflect changes in aerial theory that have taken place since the opening of the present war in 1939. When Hitler sent his Luftwaffe hurtling into Poland, the world's air forces had only theory and the small-scale lessons of Ethiopia, Spain and China to guide them.

Then came the Polish campaign and the battles of Holland, Belgium and France. Most important of all was the Nazi all-out air blitz against England in the winter of 1940-41. While this lasted, the British Isles became the guinea pig in a giant and cruel experiment in which the air theories of a generation were put to the bloody test of war.

Many lessons emerged and, as a result, airplane designers all over the world went back to their drafting boards to create new types of bombers and fighters, many of which are reaching mass production now.

down fiercely and sending the mercury to unprecedented high points quiet while Nazi resources were concentrated for Hitler's much-advertised spring drive to the east.

Probably as a counter to Britain's present campaign of intensive raiding on the continent, Goering's Luftwaffe last night raided Norway, ancient cathedral and industrial city in east-central England. The intensity of the raid indicates that at least one of Germany's six or seven air armies has been transferred to airports in France and western Germany.

Different Tactics

Tactics employed by both sides in the present British-German air war sharply reflect changes in aerial theory that have taken place since the opening of the present war in 1939. When Hitler sent his Luftwaffe hurtling into Poland, the world's air forces had only theory and the small-scale lessons of Ethiopia, Spain and China to guide them.

Then came the Polish campaign and the battles of Holland, Belgium and France. Most important of all was the Nazi all-out air blitz against England in the winter of 1940-41. While this lasted, the British Isles became the guinea pig in a giant and cruel experiment in which the air theories of a generation were put to the bloody test of war.

Many lessons emerged and, as a result, airplane designers all over the world went back to their drafting boards to create new types of bombers and fighters, many of which are reaching mass production now.

JAPANESE ADVANCE NOW THREATEN TO CUT OFF MANDALAY

mechanized forces, including tanks and airplanes, brought the battle of Burma to its most serious stage. The gravity of the situation was emphasized when it was learned that as early as Saturday night an airliner of the Chinese National Aviation Corporation on a flight from Calcutta found the airfield at Lashio had been evacuated. Instead of attempting a landing, the pilot took his craft on to Kunning, Chinese terminus of the Burma road.

Japs Achieve Advance

The Japanese northward advance was achieved by swinging eastward around Taunggyi after the city was recaptured by the Chinese troops under command of American Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell. Their main units, including strong reinforcements, came up by way of Hopong, east of Taunggyi.

The British radio, according to CBS, said early today that a report had been received in Chungking saying that Jap forces had re-entered Taunggyi.

Each Japanese column had a vanguard of mechanized units which were supported by planes. The defenders were said to be subjected to almost continuous aerial assault.

The Chinese were reported offering stubborn resistance in the vicinity of Konehaipai but it was not for how long they would be able to stem the Japanese in view of the constant reinforcements being sent in by the enemy. Both sides were said to be suffering heavy casualties.

In Western Burma the British Imperial forces were said to be occupying positions along a general line from Khatkapaung eastward to Melkila, near the Rangoon-Mandalay road. Little activity was reported from that area.

Grave Situation

LONDON, April 28.—The Japanese advance in Burma, placing the invading units half way along the route between Lashio and Hsipaw, on the vital Mandalay-Lashio road, has brought about a grave situation, British military officials conceded today.

The rapid progress of the Japanese, it was pointed out, presents the threat that the enemy may cut the Mandalay-Lashio road at any moment. Such an event would seriously affect the Chinese position since Lashio is the Burmese terminus of the Burma road leading to Kunning, China.

The present position of the Japanese is placed approximately 65 miles south of Hsipaw.

The British spokesman said the present strength of the opposing forces was not known in London.

Evacuate Lashio

LONDON, April 28.—Evacuation of the civilian population from Lashio, terminus of the Burma road, because of a lightning Japanese advance, has begun, the London Evening News reported from Chungking today.

Essential supplies already have been moved from the city, the report said.

(Editor's Note: An International News Service dispatch from Kunning yesterday disclosed that the Lashio airfield already has been evacuated.)

OPPOSE PLAN TO LIMIT INCOME TO $25,000 TOTAL

idea of imposing some restriction on the size of an individual's income, but suggested higher levels ranging from $50,000 to $100,000. Under the plan, an individual would have to earn $60,000 to have $25,000 left after taxes.

Members apprehensive over the president's suggested limitation pointed out that "serious economic repercussions" might follow in cases where prices, with large incomes have sizable fixed obligations, such as insurance and upkeep and maintenance of homes and estates.

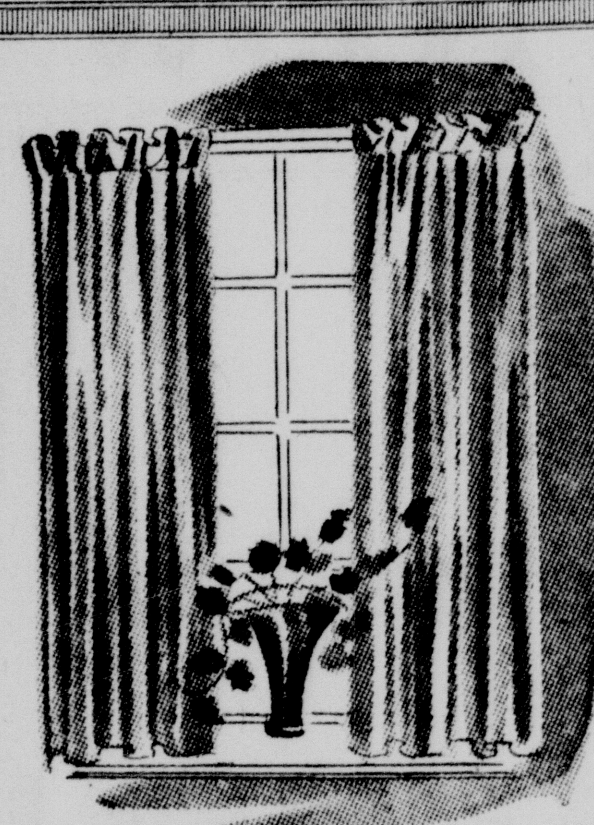

Rep. Robertson (D Va., said he did not believe the committee "this year will put a limit on what a man can have for himself," while Rep. McKeough (D Ill., said Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion required a "careful approach."

Outside of the proposal for an individual income limitation, the president's message contained little new material in respect to taxes and some ways and means committee members expressed disappointment of the lack of specific and detailed recommendations.

The Parent Problem

By Gary C. Myers, Ph. D.

PUNISHMENTS AT TEEN AGES

Some time ago I led a public forum on home citizenship, with teachers and parents.

I took the stand that the alphabet of good citizenship is home control established in the early years—respect for the rights of others and regard for constituted authority. I also said that where as the child should learn long before he could reason why, he should learn that there were certain things he must not do and also learn to do things he doesn't want to do. While punishments for the preschool child should be limited to preventing him from doing certain things, some punishments for older school children might be helpful. These could be used to make them come in from play when the street lights appear, go to bed at a regular hour, or get off to school promptly.

Here are some of the techniques suggested at the forum. All punishments should be administered without tongue lashing and emotion. One type of punishment proposed was for the offender to have to sit doing nothing where he can be seen for a definite period, ranging with age, from 20 to 90 minutes. I added that this punishment would only be effective with the child who has learned the meaning of NO, and would not venture to leave the chair before the time was up.

A mother wanted to know about home punishments for teen-age youths. I said we parents like to try to get along without punishment of a child so old, that the older the child the less effective any sort of punishment will be.

I feel sure that corporal punishment and chair-sitting are out. If punishment really seems necessary, let us limit it to denial of a cherished privilege. Even then, as with the child six or ten, the youth should know before he has transgressed just what the penalty will be.

The other day I heard of a mother who made her high school son stay home from a school dance because he had disobeyed her in some way. This had to cancel his date with a girl. It was most humiliating.

Also I often hear of high school students being forbidden to go anywhere but to school and church for weeks following a bad school report. Now and then I hear of a parent who refuses to talk to her adolescent daughter for several days to punishment. At such punishments seem to me very undesirable, the last named utterly childish. Equally bad is "jawing".

A simple rule which might generally be applied is, do not punish on the first offense. Let the nature and the seriousness of this first offense be made clear and let the penalty be announced if the act is repeated. Then prove your word is good.

Parents who establish effective controls in the early years in an atmosphere of understanding sympathy and love may find the need of punishment waning almost to the point of zero as the child approaches his middle teens, when he is treated practically as an adult. Even then, one might expect good citizenship in this youth, high respect for the rights of others and regard for constituted authority.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. Should we criticize the commanders of our army, navy or air forces in the presence of our children?
A. No; because we do not have all the facts.

Q. How can I keep my three-year-old from crying so much? If you don't let her have her way she cries. If you don't give her what she wants she cries.
A. She's smarter than you are. She knows how to get what she wants and to have her way. Quit paying her for crying. See that she doesn't get what she wants by crying for it. Just say NO to yourself, and make yourself obey. It might be wise to have her checked by your doctor.

Q. Is it to the child's advantage to know the letters of the alphabet in order to learn to read?
A. Yes; even in reading by a method of word recognition, the initial letter, especially, aids in the discrimination of the word containing it. How is the child to learn to spell if he has not mastered the letters in the word he tries to spell?

Q. My son six years old has been stuttering since he was three. He does not stutter at all when reciting from memory. He is highly imaginative and very active.
A. Read much to him. Encourage him to recite from memory and to make things with his hands. Work on yourself and the family for calm serenity and on the child for less excitement and fatigue. Act as if you don't notice the stuttering at all.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

ROLE OF THE PLANE CARRIER

Much has appeared in the news this spring about the plane carrier, which next to the warplane is the sensation of modern war contrivances. The carrier has speed but its armor is not unusually heavy. It performs best on long trips when it has the protection of cruisers and destroyers, but it can go it alone and for that reason the new types will be given a thicker shell and more guns will be mounted in them.

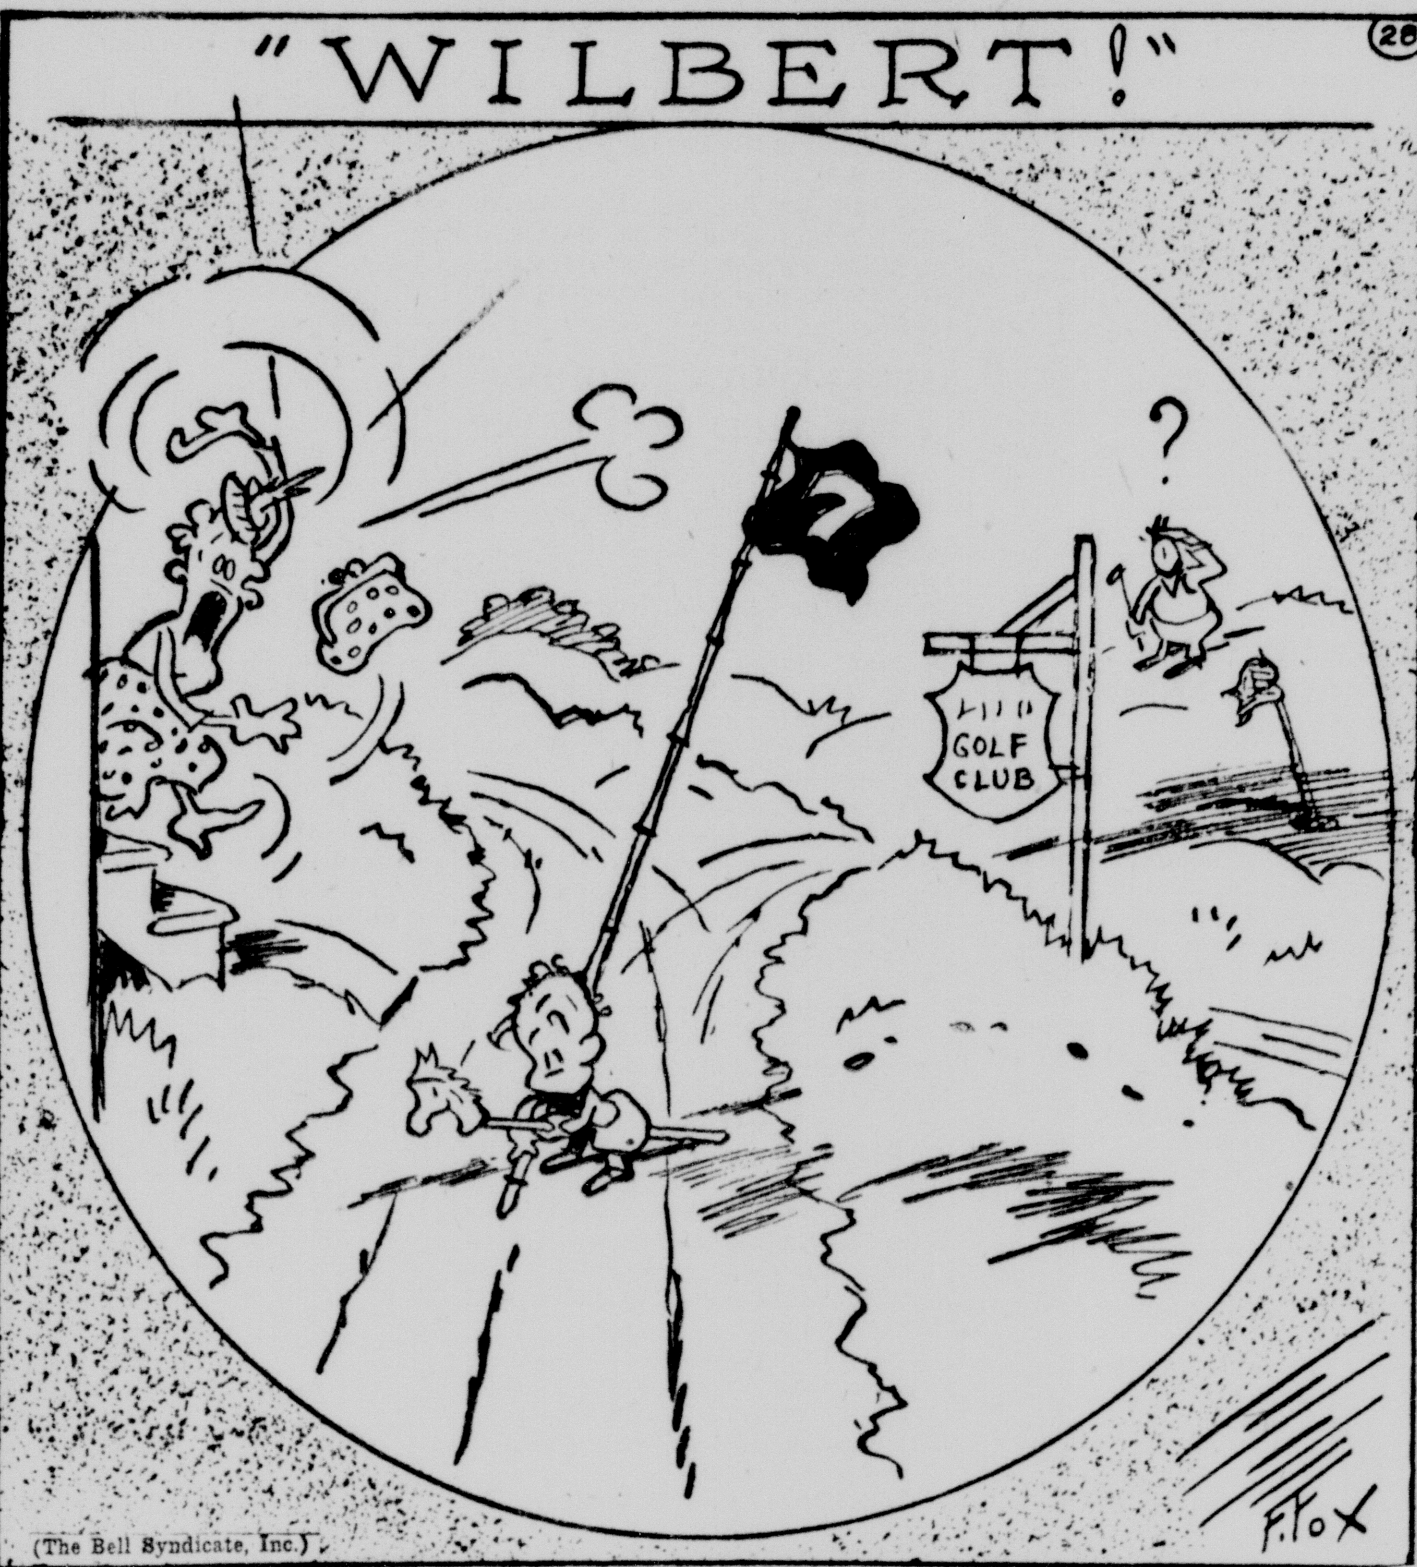

The carrier in providing a floating base for a fleet of planes puts into action the two deadly weapons which aviation has introduced to war. One is the plane torpedo. Its score in this conflict is high. The other is the bomb. This is not as destructive in a naval engagement as the torpedo but it devastating when used on war works and air bases.

The United States is increasing its fleet of plane carriers by building new ones and by converting merchantmen into carriers. This is in recognition of the revolution wrought in warfare by aviation. And in tactics and strategy that revolution has only begun.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:51. Sun rises tomorrow 6:04.

One day last week we had the experience of seeing that big ship, the Normandie, lying in the water where it sank. No cars are allowed to stop at the place, and it is guarded now.

Every time we see Wendell Willkie he has a crowd of people around him.

A man put a notice in the paper saying he would be responsible only for the debts he contracted himself. His wife put a line under it saying: "That was about all you ever were responsible for."

Teacher: "Now class, what do we mean by plural?"
Bright pupil: "By 'plural', we mean it's the same thing only more of it."

No doubt times will be booming enough for some people to be financially honest.

"Do you know," beamed the proprietor of a large department store at the morning's pep meeting, "as I came into the store this morning, I read a single word printed on the door, without which not one of you could ever dream of succeeding."

"Full!" shouted the help in unison. And the proprietor knew that he had taken his motto from the wrong side of the door.

No one will ever remember all we expect them to.

The greatest fear to getting rich is the fear of appearing poor.

The Height of Irony After a young lawyer had talked nearly two hours to a jury who grew more and more restless, his opponent in the case, a grizzled old veteran of the legal cockpit, arose, smiled sweetly at the judge and jurymen, and said: "Your Honor, I will follow the example of my young friend who has just concluded, and will submit the case without argument."

A chap we know was in the hospital, and after being there a few days took a turn for the worse.

Most people have some sort of religion. At least they know which church they are staying away from.

Our neighbors are people who "drop in" to spend the evening on the night we planned to go out.

"DREAMS DO COME TRUE"
Faith, courage, determination and the will to WIN always bring their reward.

Dreams do come true if you hold on to them and believe they will. One grain of corn, if planted cultivated and allowed to reproduce unhindered, will—in 10 years—feed the nation.

While we are necessarily concentrating on production . . . on winning the war and doing it with our whole heart and soul . . . let us not neglect to take a little time for reflection and for planning our life after the war.

Thomas A. Edison was a country telegrapher who, dreamed dreams, then worked to make them come true. His dreams made him one of the greatest inventive geniuses of all time.

William E. Corey, former president of the United States Steel Corp., attributed his rise to success to not being afraid to do $2.00 worth of work for $1, while he worked, he dreamed of bigger things ahead.

APARTMENT WINDOW DECORATIONS

"Is it in order to use artificial flowers? I live in a city apartment and have no garden, but I do like flowers in my living room, even if they must be artificial."—Goldie.

Answer: It was formerly considered poor taste to use artificial wax or paper flowers, but their manufacture has become such a fine art that they are now very much in vogue even among very smart people.

In a period room, glass or metal flowers, conventionalized so that they are not imitations of real flowers, are also in good taste. But a better idea is potted flowers, which will give both beauty and scent to your room.

Window boxes containing plants and flowers will give an attractive view from your windows and will compensate somewhat, for your missing garden.

Question: My living room furniture is of mahogany. I have two very good old painted chairs, but am somewhat doubtful as to whether painted chairs and mahogany may be used together. What do you say?—P. M. F.

Answer: One or two good painted pieces of furniture are attractive when placed in a room that is otherwise appointed in dark wood. Harmony by contrast results when these are used with mahogany or walnut.

Question: Is it correct to address one wedding invitation to "Mr. and Mrs. (2) What, if anything, is written on the inside envelope?—Jerry.

Answer: Yes, an envelope to "Mr. and Mrs." is entirely correct. (2) On the inside envelope should be written "Mr. and Mrs. Jones," omitting the address.

Question: I want to buy a rag rug for my bedroom. What kind of draperies should I have to go with it?—P. E.

Answer: Rag rugs make very attractive floor coverings in bedrooms. They should be accompanied by furniture of simple design, such as early American, and draperies of simple material, as cretonne or chintz—never by rich, heavy materials and formal furnishings.

A grand jury in Oklahoma several years ago was investigating the sale of whisky in a local option territory.

"Where did you get the last whisky you had?" the witness was asked.

"Jim Jones gave it to me," he answered.

"Was it legal or bootleg?" was the next question.

"I don't know," was the answer. "Don't you know good whisky from bad?" asked the attorney.

Crossing his legs and looking blandly at the questioner, the witness replied:

"I never did taste real bad whisky."

Partisan Politics Not Entirely Dead
Subject Has Been Soft-Pedaled Lately
Republicans Pro-Administration On War

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Considering how completely partisanship is supposed to be suspended "for the duration" there seems to be quite a bit of it in connection with the current congressional campaign.

It certainly is rather partisan if it's a fact as charged by Representative Clare E. Hoffman of Michigan that the Democratic administration is trying to defeat him, and as many other Republicans as possible, by "smeering" them as pro-Axis propagandists, among details of a grand jury investigation Attorney General Francis Biddle has been conducting in Washington lately.

That Clare's accusation is provable isn't likely for the justice department naturally doesn't admit it, but the Michigander made it in a formal speech on Capitol Hill, and even if it isn't so, it was a mean jab at the administration—the all the meaner if Clare made it up, indeed. I think he believes it, though, and it isn't a very non-partisan idea, looked at from either standpoint.

Wendell Willkie, Republican Congressional Leader Joseph W. Martin, ex-Chairman John Hamilton of the G. O. P.'s national committee, Clarence Buddington Kelland, the committee's present publicity manager and many another of the party's big bugs, are out with declarations of unqualified loyalty to the New Deal's war effort, but most of them strongly hint that their own bunch could make a still better one.

And, anyway, they all agree that the war's the only subject that they're pro-administration on.

"Unsound Panaceas"
As Publicity Manager Kelland put it, they're afraid the New Dealers will take advantage of the war for the extension of "unsound economic panaceas"—lapping over into subsequent peace time.

Congressman Martin also mentions the vital essentiality of the two-party system to democracy's survival—that is, the G. O. P.'s survival by the election of plenty of its standpoints in November.

Wendell Willkie, who dictated most of the Republican national committee's 1942 declaration of campaign principles, was a trifle funny about it. He dwelt emphatically upon the party's historic devotion to human liberty and equality, somewhat implying that the Democrats haven't always stood so pat for "em, the conclusion, seemingly, being that the latter must be permitted to make too clean a sweep next fall, or liberty and equality won't be so safe afterward. The humor of it is that Wendell was a Democrat until shortly before he was presidentially nominated.

G. O. P. Publicity-ite Kelland, who in the nature of his job, should be an authority on the subject of publicity, has taken a resounding crack at the administration's surplus (so he says) of publicity.

Kelland's account is that 30,000 of its personnel are, not exactly at work, but drawing pay in Washington, that the number's ridiculous and that they simply waste paper, pay, getting scarce, with their "releases." Congressman Percy Priest of Tennessee likewise has howled over the government's "sprawling publicity"—Priest's a Democrat.

"Unity," G. O. P. Cry
We want unity, hollers the Republican national committee, regardless of party affiliations. Nevertheless, the committee adds, (Continued On Page Seven)

INDIFFERENCE

U. S. 101 is a very busy highway. From its inception at Tia Juana, Mexico to Vancouver, Canada, it runs for the most of the distance along the shores of the Pacific, not straying inland very far. For about one-half of the distance, it is now a four-way highway and it is today a very busy one.

When it is considered that in Los Angeles County there are nearly three million motor vehicles licensed for the State of California, the reader can get some idea of how much travel by automobile for pleasure and business there is in the State of California, as well as in the States of Oregon and Washington. Add to this total the tremendous number of motor vehicles now operated by the military forces of this nation on the Pacific Coast, a four-way highway is hardly sufficient to accommodate the traffic and when in some places the highway narrows to a two-way road, traffic conditions are almost impossible.

The President of this nation, the oil companies and the automobile clubs are putting forth now their almost efforts to persuade the motorists to slow down to forty miles an hour.

Having the occasion to go to Los Angeles from San Diego I tried the experiment of driving at forty-mile-an-hour speed for the distance of one hundred forty miles. In that distance there passed me, traveling North and South several thousand cars of all descriptions. And traveling North, I would judge at least two thousand cars passed me, traveling from fifty to eighty miles an hour. Some of the cars were equipped with pretty old tires. Some of the cars were themselves ancient. They were driven by men and women of all ages. None of the drivers seemed to have any thought of the future. If they did, they evidently believed that all of this talk about not being able to obtain tires during the next few years was just plain hooey—of course, they would be able to get tires of some sort if they needed and as far as a new car was concerned, they could pick up one some way if they needed it. It all reminded me of the old story of the Missouri farmer who sold a mule to one of his friends. In a week or so the two friends met up again and the buyer of the mule asked:

"John, was that mule blind when you sold him to me?"

"No," said John.

"He must be blind now because he runs into a fence, or a tree or anything that happens to be in his way."

"Why," said John, "that is just his habit. He just doesn't give a dam."

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
(International News Service Staff Writer)

Wishful thinkers and fact-dodgers, who have maintained that Russia is with us all the way will now kindly explain in small words the internment of one of our bomber crews—in Russia.

The fact is, of course, that Russia is neutral in our war with Japan but the wishful thinkers and fact-dodgers have been glossing up that one.

Probably she will come in with us against the Japs eventually and that will be very nice because that we will be able to bomb Japan every hour on the hour from Russian bases.

The fact is that we are all the way with Russia but she is not all the way with us—yet—and there is no sense in antagonizing her by jawing about it.

And less in trying to kid ourselves that "ain't so" is 'tis so.

The situation is no different than Canada preparing to break relations with Vichy while we still hang on. We do not expect Canada to beat our brains out because of it.

Thought for the day: A fact is a thing that spoils an interesting rumor or a wishful theory.

According to dispatches from Sweden, the German people are getting war-jittery every day and have started to snap at each other.

How typical of this perverted new order! Laugh, or you'll be shot. Bow, or you go to concentration camp!

Chinese Destroy Main Highway In Burma Area

By FRANCIS LEE

CHUNGKING, April 28.—Desperately fighting Chinese troops have destroyed the main Burma highway system south of Lashio and Hsipa in an effort to halt the swift mechanized Japanese advance, a military spokesman revealed today.

The Japs have thrust 93 miles north of Taunggyi, by-passing Mandalay to the east, in a drive to cut the vital Mandalay-Lashio railway, thus isolating Chinese defenders in the Sittang Valley from Chinese and British forces to the west.

Chinese troops attacking to the east have cut off Japanese communications in one area but the enemy is reported to have thrown 4,000 troops into a gigantic outflanking movement.

While it was emphasized that the Japanese must cross extremely difficult, hilly terrain before reaching the Mandalay-Lashio railway, no effort was made to hide the extreme gravity of the situation.

The Japs were reported to be using at least five divisions, approximately 100,000 men, in an effort to complete conquest of Burma before the beginning of the monsoon season, less than a month away. It was felt that the destruction of the main highway system would slow down the enemy's mechanized spearheads.

Must Dim Lights Along Eastern Seaboard Of U. S.

War Moves Closer To East Coast With New Order Of Area Commander

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 28.—The war moved closer to the eastern seaboard today with an army wartime order dimming lights along the New York, New Jersey and Delaware shore for the first time in history in an effort to safeguard American shipping from being silhouetted against coastal glare.

Effective tonight as the first regulation issued by Major Gen. Irving A. Phillipson, commander of the Second Corps Area, under the recently established Eastern Military Area, the order prohibits all lighting which shines directly toward the sea or contributes to a glow which might help Axis submarines spot coastal shipping.

Possibility of an immediate blackout of the area-extending fifteen miles inland from the southern Connecticut boundary line to northern Delaware—was foreseen if these precautions do not produce the desired effect.

Army officials interpreted the order today as meaning "exactly what it says." All New York skyscrapers and tall buildings in other cities must be darkened above the fifteenth floor. Highway and street lighting fronting on the sea must be dimmed and illumination of amusement places and boardwalks "shall be extinguished between sundown and sunrise."

This, army officers explained, means a "virtual blackout" of such amusement places as Coney Island, Atlantic City, Asbury Park and the like. Possibility of further dimming of Times Square, New York's famed bright light belt, also was foreseen.

He stressed the fact that the home should be a social center for young people and gave as the four needs for all individuals, adventure, security, attention from others and a desire to stand out in a crowd. Mr. Luce also stressed the need of discussions between parents and children.

A question and answer period followed his address.

Coffee Deliveries Cut 25 Per Cent

Looked Upon As Indication Of Ration Program For Nation

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, April 28.—The War Production board's order cutting coffee deliveries 25 per cent was looked upon today as indication of a ration program.

While the order did not touch retailers, the W.P.B. instructed wholesalers to "pass the cut along to customers as equitably as possible."

It was explained by the W.P.B. that the move was taken to conserve supplies now on hand for the armed forces and civilian population and "to make the present supplies go as far as possible."

The war has created uncertainty about future supplies, since merchant ships that normally transport coffee are needed to transport "war materials," the W.P.B. said. "As a result of the 25 per cent cut in coffee deliveries the present supply will last for several months even if all imports were suspended."

Government officials are said to be working out a rationing program for coffee and possibly tea.

No one knows better than I do the care of a household and the fact we all want clean homes, but being in close touch with the war problems I know that the suffering of the refugees is not letting up because we have been blessed by a beautiful spring I hope all of the fine volunteers throughout the chapter jurisdiction will do one or more garments during the summer and in this way we can keep up our quota," Mrs. Garland concluded.

(International News Service) SHAMOKIN, Pa., April 28.—Coal township high school and 13 elementary schools were closed today by the strike of 124 teachers and 27 janitors in support of teachers' demands for payment of 55 days' back pay.

Thirty-one hundred pupils returned home without incident when they found that their teachers had failed to report for duty this morning. The janitors walked out in a sympathy demonstration.

Spokesmen for the teachers insisted the strike will continue until payment of back wages is made, although Adam Ostroski, secretary of Coal township school board, issued a statement that the board had no funds to meet its obligation to the teachers.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Francis B. Haas has indicated that the striking teachers might apply for state assistance.

B. Number of War Ration Stamps to be removed from War Ration Book One (upon the basis of information stated above): IS NONE WRITE NONE

OPA Form No. R-201 U. S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE 16-58450-1 (Continue on reverse side.)

Applicants for sugar rationing books are urged by the Office of Price Administration to study carefully the application card, illustrated above, and have the correct answers when they register on May 4, 5, 6 and 7. A separate application must be made for every person for whom a ration book is issued, but only one member of each family unit is to appear at the nearest elementary school to apply for all members of the family.

This is the biggest registration job ever undertaken in so limited a time in the United States. Within four days the nation's 130,000,000 men, women and children will be registered and will receive their ration books. To accomplish so big a job in that space of time, the Office of Price Administration, which administers rationing is urging every applicant for a ration book to come prepared with accurate information to all questions which the registrars will ask when filling out the application form.

Questions to Answer

If you answer these questions promptly OPA estimates it will only take four minutes to fill out this form. One and a quarter million school teachers will serve as registrars.

1. Applicants should come prepared with a list of the members of their families, giving the exact name of each.

2. An exact description of each member of the family unit, giving the height, weight, color of eyes, color of hair, age and sex of each one.

3. The person who registers for the family unit must state his or her exact relationship to each member of it.

4. It is necessary to know to the pound just how much sugar is in the possession of the household. The amount of sugar will be divided by the number of people in the family units and stamps will be torn out by the registrar for all sugar in excess of two pounds per person. If more than four stamps have to be removed, issuance of the book will be withheld until later.

One—and only one—member of each family unit is to go to the elementary school nearest to the person's residence to register and to apply for ration books for the whole family. OPA emphasizes. Single people not members of a family unit, even if they board with a family, must apply for themselves.

A family unit has been defined by the Office of Price Administration as "a group of two or more individuals consisting of all persons who are living together in the same household who are related by blood or marriage."

Toys To Suffer In War Effort

Bombs, Shells, And Bullets Will Take Steel And Other Toy Materials

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, April 28 — A goodly portion of the bombs, shells and bullets manufactured by the United States after June 30 for use against the Axis might well be inscribed:

"With love from junior."
Because after that date 93 per cent of the thousands of tons of steel and iron, copper, zinc, lead, plastics, paints and fabrics which ordinarily go toward making American children happy will be used to make totalitarian soldiers miserable.

The materials, which in peacetime would have been fabricated into shiny toys for young America, this year—and for the duration—will be poured into the manufacture of guns, tanks and planes to insure for those children and their children's children a free land in which to live and prosper.

That, in effect, was the interpretation placed today by Howard Browning, regional information officer of the OEM, on the WPB's recent order banning the production of toys containing more than seven per cent of certain "critical materials" and the complete stoppage of fabrication of playthings made of "prohibited materials."

Save 100,000 Tons

Through these means, he explained, it is expected to save for war 100,000 tons of iron and steel; 2,000 tons of copper, copper alloy and brass; 1,000 tons of lead; 3,000 tons of rubber; 3,000 tons of zinc and huge quantities of other vital substances.

But junior won't be altogether out of luck, because it is expected that the toy manufacturers will turn to such substitutes as wood, paper, ceramics, cotton fabrics, non-critical plastics and earth colors to fill the breach.

In fact, he pointed out, toy makers, crippled by priorities and allocations on materials for months, are already off to a head start on the road to substitution. On the market today are wooden velocipedes, wooden express wagons, wooden pedal cars and wooden autos. Aluminum and metal dish sets have been replaced by glass, china and non-important plastics. Model airplane kits come in pine and cardboard instead of Balsa. Chess men and game pieces formerly made of a catlain are now wood, and poker chips are of pressed paper instead of plastics.

Not even the boom in military toys has fazed the manufacturers. Springfield and Garand rifles made entirely of wood, wood machine guns which sound off a realistic rat-a-tat-tat, soldiers of cardboard, and all-wood parade guns, anti-aircraft guns, forts, planes, jeeps, tanks, battleships and commando barges stream from the production lines.

By and large, Browning declared, the most grievous casualty of all may well be the adult with a passion for junior's electric train.

Girl Scouts Prepare For Camping Program

Because camping is an antidote for war nerves, the Girl Scout Council of New Castle will emphasize the camping program this summer, it was announced today by Mrs. George Ward, chairman of the Girl Scout camping committee.

"Camp life provides wholesome, healthful out-of-door activities which prove beneficial in maintaining the physical and nervous stamina of our children," Mrs. Ward stated. "It is important that today's youngsters have the advantage of the peaceful and relaxed atmosphere of camp. They are under strain. War talk at home and on the radio, changes in family routine due to war work and many other things combine to make even the youngest children reflect war tensions. We owe it to our children and to our country to do our utmost to counteract these effects. The younger generation today needs every help we can give it to maintain its physical and mental health, and to grow up under as nearly normal conditions as possible. A good camping program, made available to as many children as possible, will do a great deal towards minimizing the hazards of growing up under war conditions."

The camping program which the New Castle Girl Scout council will make available to girls will be Day Camp, July 6-17 at Cascade Park and Established Camp, August 9-23 at the Lawrence County Boy Scout Camp. Individual troops may also do Troop Camping at the Girl Scout Camp near Slippery Rock.

Mrs. Ward stated that the Girl Scout organization was the first in the camping field to set up minimum standards of health and safety, and is still setting the pace for camping procedures and programs.

Registrations will begin May 1 and early returning to signed applications is recommended because a full camp is anticipated.

First Aid Film To Be Shown Doctors

First Aid Chairman Harry Culliford Will Address Medical Society Friday

The Lawrence County Medical Association meeting Friday evening, May 1, has invited Harry J. Culliford, Director of First Aid of the Lawrence County Chapter, to be their guest and to show the new Red Cross film "Before The Doctor Comes."

Each reel takes up several phases of First Aid, demonstrating proper procedure and techniques to be employed at the scene of an accident. Throughout the film is emphasized that the care given an injured person pending the arrival of medical assistance may mean the difference between life and death.

Mr. Culliford used this film during the Instructor's Course recently held in the Chapter jurisdiction and from the response given it by 200 instructors, he feels very certain the Medical Association will gain an understanding of the Red Cross and its First Aid program.

Dr. Wilbur Flannery, as Medical Advisor of the First Aid Committee of the Lawrence County Chapter will be in charge of the meeting and introduce Mr. Culliford. The entire program of first aid as now carried out in the Lawrence County Chapter is being worked into the Civilian Defense program under Dr. Paul Wilson, Medical Advisor for the Disaster, Preparedness Committee of the Chapter.

What's What At A Glance

"lack of organization is the outstanding weakness of the present administration."

Publicity's one of the items of it. Or, rather, the developing censorship, under Bryon Price, is.

A news correspondent of my acquaintance emitted a terrible yell concerning it a few days ago. He serves technical publications, to which he has to transmit scientific words, un-understandable to an uneducated guy, such as the average censorial bird, and the latter erases them, however harmless they may be, as some sort of a cipher.

It makes the system unnecessarily unpopular.

It also suppresses some news that it would be desirable to have circulated. George Creel, our censor in World War I, recently broadcast a warning concerning this.

Well, at all events, this doesn't appear to me to be as non-partisan a political campaign as it's advertised.

Date Service Men, But Think Thrice Before Matrimony, Psychology Expert Advises

By WILLIAM A. RUTLEDGE III
Central Press Writer
LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 28.—Cupid is in the nation's war effort and his traditional arrows are a weapon to be reckoned with in the conflict.

Affairs of the heart have become a matter of such importance that a course for war brides has been opened at the University of Southern California under the tutelage of Dr. Sarah Stinchfield Hawk, nationally known authority on sociological and psychological problems.

The course, inaugurated to train young girls in the problems associated with the service their sweethearts and husbands are making in the armed forces, is supplemented by Dr. Hawk's consultation periods for individual analysis of specific cases.

Scores of draftees have protested to the professor over the advice she gave their girl friends, but the veteran instructor and author of numerous books on such topics stands by her guns. The keynote of her counsel to girls is, "Give preference to the man in uniform in making dates, but think twice and thrice before leaping into marriage."

DR. SARAH STINCHFIELD HAWK

Individual Matter

"Marriage is entirely an individual matter for each of the contracting parties. I am looking at it from a purely practical standpoint. Girls who marry our fighting men should be prepared to accept the consequences. There's glamor in uniforms, and men in military training may be more aggressive and reckless than they would otherwise."

Parents should do their part, Dr. Hawk declared, in helping to guide and ease the road for their sons' war bride. "Parents unfortunately are prone to regard a marriage under such circumstances as hasty and ill-advised. However, they are probably the most able to help out if they have a sympathetic attitude toward the new daughter-in-law."

Wives and sweethearts play an important role in the war, the professor emphasized. "Nothing is more demoralizing to a man in service than to know or suspect that hand in helping to keep homes intact during the war. Dr. Hawk believes, and also in seeing to it that children whose fathers give their lives for their country are not deprived of fundamental benefits which they could expect to receive had their fathers remained at home.

For girls coming into contact with men in uniform, Dr. Hawk's advice is, "Be a good playfellow. Encourage companionship and help the man in uniform to enjoy his leave in every way possible in a healthy and normal manner. Girls should avoid taking a noble sacrifice attitude in marrying a service man."

Approves Aussie Marriages

Regarding the matter of marriages of American soldiers to girls in Australia, which has become a subject of concern in Allied war councils in the Pacific, the professor heartily approves of them "if the boys intend to stay in Australia and settle down after the war with their wives or if they are determined to bring their brides back to the United States with them after the war."

Dr. Hawk first attained recognition as an associate professor of psychology at Mount Holyoke college. As the author of a dozen books on various aspects of psychology, she was made a member of the staff of the University of Southern California in 1932.

The scope of demands made upon Trojan co-eds for Red Cross work, ambulance driving, and in helping to entertain men in uniform belittled the decision of officials to open a course this month on Marriage Problems in Time of War. On the campus it is known as the class for war brides, actual or prospective.

Schoolboys To Battle Forest Fires In State

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, April 28.—Spurred by an increasing number of destructive fires, the department of forests and waters revealed today that thousands of schoolboys over 16 years had been enrolled to bolster the forces of regular forest fire fighters.

George H. Wirt, chief state fire warden, said that high school youths—residing mostly in rural areas—would reinforce the 39,000 experienced fire fighters throughout the state.

"In order to assure adequate protection to the forests," he declared, "we have done more to increase our reserves. We contacted high schools and made necessary arrangements required by law for boys over 16 to go into the forests and fight fires if it is necessary."

"We dislike to call on the boys unless it is absolutely necessary because we don't want them to miss school or be away from the farms, but in some cases we have done it already."

Wirt said that since January 1 there were approximately 800 forest fires of sizeable proportions reported by the 24 district fire wardens. Wardens are not required to report fires that do not "run from one day to the next or cover less than 1000 acres," he said.

Until two weeks ago, Wirt stated, the number of fires were below average because of rain and snow but since mid-April scores of fires have broken out. The so-called "fire season" ends around the end of May or the middle of June, he added.

"We are constantly vigilant during the last two weeks in May because more fires start then in the dry forest lands than usually occur during the entire month of April," Wirt declared.

Approximately 3900 fire wardens and more than 35,000 organized crew members are ready to protect millions of acres of forest lands in the state. High school youths accepted for duty will augment the regular force. In addition, the fire wardens are empowered to draft fire fighters from the ranks of passing motorists or other citizens.

Wirt said that reports to his office emphasized that locomotives cause a large number of fires in wooded areas.

"A reasonably good percentage of the fires now are due to sparks from railroad locomotives that are hauling an increased number of trains carrying war supplies," he declared. "Next in order comes fires that develop when people burn brush and the flames get out of control while pure carelessness accounts for many others."

Corregidor Has Noted Bandsmen

Defenders Of Corregidor Have Band Made Up Of Famous U. S. Players

(International News Service)
CORREGIDOR, P. I., April 27.—(Transmitted by the War Department.) Embattled defenders of Corregidor believe that famous United States band leaders had better look to their laurels, for this beleaguered island fortress believes it has one of the best "pick-up" bands west of the international date line and east of the China Sea.

Corregidor's band, which plays "jam sessions" occasionally in the evenings, when the air is not filled with reverberations of enemy bombs and shells, is a melodic music, draws members from Texas, Ohio, Wisconsin, Arizona and California.

The musicians, all of whom appeared with bands and broadcast over radio stations in the United States, get together whenever they happen to be off the same time to provide entertainment for the island defenders. Even Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright, his chief of staff, Brigadier General Lewis C. Beebe, and Major General George F. Moore, harbor defense commander, set in on "jam sessions" which do wonders in lifting morale.

Members of the band are James Thompson, of Waco, Tex., former leader of the "Oklahoma boys band" which played in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Missouri; Malcolm T. Reinhardt, Jr., of Margaret, Tex., formerly with "Bob Skyles and his Skyrocks," and with Bob Baker, who has broadcast over station KWEY, Hobbs, N. M., station KVWC, Vernon, Tex., and station KIVN, Pecos, Tex.; Chester R. McClure, of Phoenix, Ariz., who formerly played with "Ace, Deuce and Spades," "Jimmy Palmer and his Oklahoma Ramblers" and "Smoky Mountain Ramblers" and has broadcast over stations KY and KTAR, Phoenix, Ariz.

Plans Are Progressing For American War Offensive

Make Ready To Strike At Enemy

Forces Being Poised At Ever-Widening Front Awaiting Orders

BEST STRATEGISTS ARE IN COMMAND

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—Spearheading the inevitable American offensive against the Axis powers, crack United States Army forces under some of the nation's best military strategists today are poised at vital outposts on an ever-widening front awaiting orders to strike at the enemy.

With army air units already striking offensive blows from India and Australia, and naval units guarding the sealanes in the Atlantic and the Pacific, American expeditionary forces in growing numbers are awaiting the "go" signal which Secretary of War Stimson has promised would be given "as soon as practicable."

Still Holding Out
In the Philippines, Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright's forces on Corregidor and elsewhere in the commonwealth still are holding out against vastly superior Japanese forces, providing valuable time for America and the United Nations to get set in other war theaters.

Latest word from Corregidor was that the fort's batteries continue to take a heavy toll of the enemy despite the fact that Wainwright's garrisons in Manila Bay have been subjected to more than 250 air raids since the war began.

Elsewhere throughout the world, AEF units are being whipped into fighting trim under American officers who have spent the past 20 years perfecting tactics they tried and used successfully on the battlefields of France during World War I.

Highlighting the increasingly important part American military men are playing in the United Nations war effort, the war department in its latest communique disclosed the appointment of Major Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel as supreme commander of forces in Iceland, the first distant outpost manned by U. S. troops.

A graduate of West Point, Bonesteel has served with the aviation section of the Army Signal Corps and the infantry. In World War I, Bonesteel was attached to infantry regiments of the Seventh Division.

Defend New Caledonia
In command of American forces now assisting the Free French in defending the important southwestern Pacific island of New Caledonia is Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, Jr., who commanded the First Division's Machine Gun Battalion in France in 1918.

Topping the list is Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific. In World War I MacArthur won distinction and honor as commander of the 84th Infantry Brigade of the 42nd (Rainbow) Division.

Maj. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, MacArthur's chief of staff, also saw service in France at Verdun and Chateau Thierry.

Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, a native of Cleveland, O., heads the United Nations air forces in the southwest Pacific. He has been directing smashing blows against Japanese invasion bases on islands north of Australia. In the last war, Brett was Chief of the Material Division for the air service.

Wainwright, the hero of Corregidor, is a crack cavalry officer who served in France as a Major and later Lieutenant Colonel with the 82nd Army Division at St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne.

Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, Chief of Staff to China's generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, in World War I was attached at various times to British, French units and AEF general headquarters.

Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of American air forces in India, distinguished himself in 1918 as commander of the 12th Aero Squadron, the first American flying unit to reach the front.

Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney, commander of American forces in the United Kingdom, was attached to air services of the first AEF.

Since the Salvation Army opened the Battery Park service men's club at New York Harbor's Edge, trouble in the waterfront district there for military and naval police has decreased 75 per cent.

The club, converted from unused space between two piers at the foot of Manhattan Island, is a mecca for sailors from United Nations vessels and from the Navy Yard, coast guardsmen from local stations, soldiers from Fort Jay, as well as visiting members of the armed forces, who would otherwise be limited to commercial sources of spare-time amusement.

Amid felicitations by Major General Irving J. Phillipson, Second Corps Area commander, and Lt. Commissioner Charles B. Cranford, representing the Third Naval District, Commissioner Ernest I. Pugmire accepted the club's charge on February 28.

In the club's first two weeks, Major George Baggs, director, registered fighting men from the North, South East, and West—37 states of the nation so far—and from Canada, England, Scotland, and Wales. One evening two men from the same Minnesota town who had never met before were introduced at the snack bar. A sandwich grill was especially installed to supplement the consumption of 750 cups of coffee and 1,500 doughnuts by a daily average of 500 guests.

Hostesses are present during the day and evening to assist in entertaining, though frequently, by use of a voice recorder and piano, the light task of making amusement is quickly caught up by the fighting men themselves.

The game of darts was scarcely installed when it was seized upon by men from Great Britain to display their skill over American boys who would have shown more grace and accuracy with a baseball or football in their hands.

The club was fostered by the New York City Defense Recreation Committee, received special supervision from an advisory group of three—Walter Naumburg, Mrs. Francis H. McAdoo, and Walter Bruchhausen, and was given a Godspeed by Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, the Federal Coordinator of defense activities.

"We hope that Chambers of Commerce and business associations of all kinds will devote increasing time to locating idle facilities and seeing they are scrapped for material of war," announced R. D. McGiffert, W. P. B. regional salvage assistant. "Present facilities cannot operate long without ransacking every corner of industry and commerce for scrap and more scrap."

Private Wong Is 'Cleaning Up'

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, April 28.—Pvt. George Wong, of nearby Turtle Creek, was really "cleaning up his business" today.

Pvt. Wong, now a member of Uncle Sam's growing army, had to get a furlough from Fort McClelland, Ala., to return to Turtle Creek and distribute the laundry that had been locked in his shop for the past four weeks.

He said no one could decipher his laundry marks and some 200 citizens of Turtle Creek were mighty unhappy about the whole thing until army officials gave Wong time off to return home.

Wong reported for his physical examination in Pittsburgh, figuring he would be given an immediate furlough to return the laundry. Instead, he wound up in Alabama.

Wong thinks army life is okay—in fact he has only one complaint. He has to pay $2.25 a month to have his laundry done.

Regulations Under Explosives Act Are Announced

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Various details of regulations set up under the Federal Explosives Act which affect the users of explosives or their components, are announced by Dr. R. R. Sayers, director of the bureau of mines. Ammonium nitrate which is used frequently as fertilizer for lawns and sodium chlorate which is widely used for killing weeds, also were ingredients of explosives, and persons who have such chemical compounds in their possession or plan to purchase or use them must obtain a federal license according to the regulations.

Homeowners, gardeners, nursery operators and farmers are affected as are high schools, colleges, and universities and pharmacies and other stores which keep ingredients of explosives on hand or wish to obtain them. There are approximately 15,000 high schools in the nation which use separate ingredients of explosives for demonstrations in general science and chemistry classes, the explosives control division of the bureau has estimated.

Commercial lawn fertilizers sold under trade names and which contain ammonium nitrate or other ingredients of explosives in a mixture with other materials have thus far been exempted by the director. Dr. Sayers said picric acid, commonly used for treatment of burns, is itself an explosive and thus is listed in the act with ammonium nitrate, sodium chlorate and several other chemicals.

Designed chiefly to prevent sabotage, the Federal Explosives Act is a wartime measure being administered by the bureau, specifies that federal licenses must be obtained by all persons and corporations who manufacture, distribute, store, sell or use nonmilitary explosives or their ingredients. No licenses will be granted to persons or firms believed to be hostile or disloyal to the United States or to persons believed to be unreliable or incompetent to handle explosives. Persons who violate the act are subject to heavy penalties.

Approximately 3,800 federal licensing agents have been named by the bureau to issue explosives licenses. All licensing agents are responsible persons authorized to issue oaths. Many of them are county clerks and clerks of courts.

Under the act, no ingredient of an explosive in an amount exceeding one ounce may be purchased or possessed without a federal license.

Enemy Agents Along Coast Menace To U.S.

Serious Threat To Shipping Says Flag Officer Of
U. S. Fleet

By JOHN R. HENRY
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

WITH THE ATLANTIC FLEET.
April 28.—Enemy agents, operating today along America's shoreline, are a serious threat to allied shipping, according to a flag officer of the fleet.

Operation of Axis submarines, the officer believes, has been based upon information obtained from spies in many instances.

Smash Spy Menace
"Advocating immediate action to smash the spy menace," he asserted.
"If the people of the United States
knew the damage to our war effort that these hounds of Hell can produce, they would pretty soon put an end to it—or I don't know the spirit of America."

Fully engaged in the battle of the Atlantic, the flag officer sounded a plea for cooperation of the civilian population in combating enemy agents and recommended heavy punishment of the apprehended spies.

"If we drew a ring of steel around our coast line and borders," he said,
"news of military nature could not get out of the country."

"Consequently, our ship movements would not be known," he continued. "The enemy's submarines would get no 'tip-offs' and he would have to work in the dark."

"Look man," he said. "This fight is not only for the military to carry on."

People Ashore Have Duty
"We feel that the people ashore have just as much interest in winning this war as we have, and to do so, they must back us up to the limit in word and deed."

"We have gone at suppression of this spy business in a most tolerant and tender fashion, so it seems, because of the proper desire to avoid
'witch-hunting' and the alienation

of those of foreign birth among us who are just as proud of this country and as patriotic as you or I.

The sneaking spy is a hard fellow and the F.B.I. are no doubt working tooth and nail to uncover spies, but the territory to be covered is so great that they can not stamp out the spy evil without the full hearted cooperation of every loyal American citizen.

"True, if everyone imagines himself a sleuth and permits social, personal or business prejudice to guide his judgment and actions, the effect would be a 'witch-hunt' of dangerous and foul kind," the flag officer continued.

"If, on the other hand, a loyal American has substantial intelligence of subversive activity and fails to inform the authorities, he is, in effect, a party to the crime of treason."

"I can not see why we censor the mail of the military, and at the same time let the disloyal element ashore go ahead and pass vital information out of the country."

Concerns Spies
The officer specified that his remarks specifically concerned spies,
"and not just those who talk up the Axis and influence public opinion by subversive chatter."

"A spy," he said, "is a real danger, because he peddles vital military information. The damage a good spy with a radio set can do is boundless. Take, for example, the damage to the navy that transmission of information about ship movements to Axis countries can do."

He mentioned the New Jersey spy
case. "Just the other day," he said,
"we read of a nest of German seamen in Hoboken being raided and the discovery and seizure of radio apparatus capable of high frequency transmission abroad. If there are spies in Hoboken, there are thousands of them scattered all over the country working effectively for an Axis victory."

He then emphasized the necessary
of all-out cooperation of civilians,
and concluded bluntly:

"If we don't win this war, we will be talking German and pulling rickshaws—and that's no stretch of the imagination!"

The flag officer is a man of suave, courtly manner. Dressed in civilian apparel, he probably would be presumed by strangers to be a successful professional or business man, rather than the veteran seaman that he is.

His aides swear by him, and relate how their chief "stays on the job" 24 hours a day. When we are underway, he climbs to his bridge
the minute his flagship lifts anchor and remains there, through foul weather and fair, until all of his ships have cleared danger zones safely.

War is nothing novel to this officer.

But if a young man who does such things is merely "wild," why is a

RESTRICTIONS ON TELEPHONE INSTALLATIONS ARE NECESSARY TO Win the War

Since the outbreak of war there have been critical shortages of the materials used in providing telephone service—copper, aluminum, tin, steel, magnesium, rubber, zinc, nickel.

These materials are urgently needed for the nation's planes, tanks, guns, ships, munitions. They are vital to victory.

That is why the War Production Board has placed certain restrictions on telephone installations.

These restrictions are essential war measures—to save every possible pound of the metals needed to equip our armed forces.

To install one extension telephone may require no more than 30 or 40 feet of copper wire. But to install thousands of them takes enough copper to wire a fleet of bombers.

Restrictions inevitably cause inconvenience to some. But Americans put convenience second—VICTORY FIRST!

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 28.—Governor James is not impressed by talk of large-scale bootlegging of liquor

in Pennsylvania. . . . He questioned whether a reduction in the price of liquor would reduce the illicit traffic. . . . Pointing to a recent statement by the Liquor Control board that its sales last year had reached $107,000,000, the greatest in the history of the state monopoly, Governor James commented,

"It seems to me that most of the people who are buying liquor are purchasing it from legitimate

sources."

If a special session of the legislature is called later this year to consider a tax reduction program,

Governor James will not recommend slashing the 10 per cent. tax on liquor. . . . "Personally," he aid, "I do not think it should be taken off. There are other taxes that the people have to pay, on gasoline, on their cars if they wish to drive them, on business. They have no choice in the matter. But the tax they pay on liquor is on the amount they want to purchase. I do not believe the average man who drinks is complaining very much

when he realizes that the profits and taxes all go to help the man who has no job."

Independent political parties have only a few days left in which to get their candidates on the fall ballot.
April 28 being the final day for the filing of their nominating papers with the state elections bureau. As yet only one independent party has filed papers. That is the Haluska $60-at-60 group. Petitions are being circulated for the prohibition party and it is believed the socialist party may also file, having nominated candidates for governor and lieutenant governor. Apparently the communist party will not have a statewide ticket in the field this year. Blank forms obtained by the communists from the election bureau are only for district candidates.

There is speculation in political circles over what's going to happen to the new guard group of anti-organization Republicans? The group, which is directed by P. Stephen Stahnecker former Pinchot campaign manager, at first advanced William H. Hartman, 1940 state chairman of the Wilkie Clubs, as its candidate for governor and when he refused to run G. Graybill Diehm, Lancaster County Republican chairman, received the designation. However, Diehm, after consenting to run as the new guard candidate, later withdrew from the race and the new group is now without a gubernatorial candidate. There are rumors that the group may declare for Senator James J. Davis, anti-organization gubernatorial candidate. Stahnecker promised a statement on the group's position "soon."

If publicity will win a campaign, then Maj. Gen. Edward Martin will win the Republican gubernatorial nomination and Judge Ralph H.
Smith the Democratic nomination.
They seem to have a clear lead in the "battle for publicity."

The land area of Russia is greater than that of the entire North American continent.

Derby Trial Turf Headliner Today

Eleven Hosses Will Answer Starter's Call At Louisville; Requested Arrives

ALSAB, SUN AGAIN HEAD THE PARADE

(International News Service Sports Writer) NEW YORK, April 28.—Keep an eye on the Blue Grass country today fans and, long about 4:35 p. m. (CWT) you should have a good idea just which colts will parade to the post Saturday in the 68th annual Kentucky Derby and—what's more important—just who will win it.

For this is the day of the Derby trial, a one mile test closed to eligibles for the Blue Grass Classic and eleven of them have promised to answer the starter's call.

The field is headed by Alsab and Sun Again, two of the question mark colts of the new year. Others named include Cleveland Purum's Man's Man; The Valinda Farms, Hollywood and Valinda Orphan; W. H. Hoffman Jr.'s Radio Joe and Cloak; D. V. McClure's Gold Princess; James F. O'Neill's Winwithme; Stuart Hamblen's Captain Fury and E. C. A. Berger's Best and Sport.

Requested Arrives With the arrival this morning of Ben Whitaker's Requested, winner of the Wood Memorial, and William stable, The Diver, which suffered a cut on his left leg on the eve of the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland last Wednesday night, was expected to go to the post today but trainer John Gaver decided instead not to risk a recurrence of the injury and gave the Diver a work instead.

Alsab is reported fit as hands can make him. Trainer Sarge Swenke says the "horse that beats him will win the Derby." So if Alsab is beaten today he probably will lose a lot of followers who have stuck to him through six straight losing starts as a three year old.

The Valinda entry are two of the many horses of a "dark hue" which have the students of the form sheets daffy this year. No one knows too much about them out Hollywood, imported from Ireland, won once there and twice in this country. He's well liked by the clockers. Valinda Orphan is rated just as good by Trainer J. F. Flanagan who said last week he didn't know which was the better colt.

THE WINTER CO.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Very few New Castle folk ever have been in Japan, the nation that delivered a punch before the bell. However, while at the Johnson Bronze night turn bowlers banquet several afternoons since, we espied Joe Diffley, one of the principal spokesmen, and our mind jumped from him to Mike, the catcher, who is now managing the Oswego, N. Y., ball club. Many years ago Mike was a catcher on a team of collegians who journeyed to play exhibition games in Japan.

Incidentally, recollections of Mike also recalls a veteran of the Central powers of World War I. We met the man years ago, now a citizen, who told of having been captured by the Russians. Because of his mechanical ability he was given work. Later, he went to Japan and acted as a chauffeur for a Tokyo banker. He told us he came to San Francisco. However, in his conversation he warned that Japan was a nation the U. S. should watch.

Pat Kearns is becoming a second Luke Barnett. As an operator for Johnny McCoy, he knows bowlers and their ability and there are few of them who failed to come in for ribbing at assemblies. After having been kept indoors by Troublesome Rheumatism, Johnny McCoy is able to be about. He strolled through the Public Square yesterday. From what he told us he is able to get out daily for short trips.

Earl Shurley, Duquesne high school golf team member made a hole in one at Butler's East Park yesterday. . . . Sammie Haycock of Sylvan Heights told us yesterday he anticipates a big season, despite rubber scarcity. Clubs who arrange for their teams to play there receive a "break" this season.

St. Vincent defeated Fairmont 20-4 at Latrobe. . . . Morrie Gravatt chalked a two-under-par 70 for the best individual effort in yesterday's warm-up round of the Professional Golfers association at the Edgewood Country club, Allegheny county.

Jack Blackburn, trainer for Joe Louis, who died, was around New Castle early in the 1900's. He was one of the best fighters the nation had at the time. Incidentally Jack Young, colored, known as "Pump Handle" Jack, fought Blackburn but was stopped by Jack in Johnstown.

Annual Event In Moose Home Will Honor Royal Blues, League Winners

Close to a hundred duckpin artists, members of the various teams which have composed the B. and O. Duckpin league during the past winter, will gather in the Moose home this evening at 6:30 o'clock to honor Capt. Mike Mash and his Royal Blue team, winners of the league title after a grueling season. The season averages will be posted at this time, and the eight highest men will serve as captains of their various teams next year.

The B. and O. league has been going strong for several years now and promotes good fellowship and a keen spirit of rivalry among the men at the New Castle shops who are interested in spilling the pins.

Slovaks Start Drills Tonight

Henry Dugan, acting manager, today announced that the Slovak baseball team, member of the City league, will start practice sessions tonight at 6 o'clock on Cedar street grounds.

All members of last year's squad and players desiring a tryout are requested to report tonight. The Slovaks and Lawrence Indies will share the Cedar street diamond, it was announced.

FAIR or FOUL By LAWTON CARVER INS Sports Editor

By LAWTON CARVER International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 28.—From far, far away across the Pacific, in a strange land where wild black men wear red flowers in their hair and the sun comes up with the roar of bombers, Pat Robinson cales in a story on the war. It's a graphic, dramatic piece about a raid by American planes on the Japs. Robinson flew with them, was shot at, forced down and saw a tussle he won't forget.

Still if you had read that story of his as it poured into our office from way out there where the sun sinks down every day you would have known he got his schooling in the press box at sports events. You would have known it without having worked with him as a sports writer for nearly 10 years. He gave himself away in one paragraph. "We find a hut," Robinson says in his piece, "where dive bomber men are sitting around, waiting for their next mission like jockeys wait in the dressing room for the next horse race."

Sports Trivia Now Jockeys and horse races, football, the big fights, baseball, track and field all must seem like utter trivia to Robinson now, from his post as a war correspondent over in one of the craziest corners of this crazy world. Yet, I'm sure it must be only natural for a guy even in a spot like that to fall back on something which has been closest to him. In his case it couldn't help but be sports, for he had been banging on press box typewriters for some 20 years before he was sent out on the war by International News Service.

What's more he was among the better sports writers and a corking reporter. He's showing them what the latter means every day. For all I know they should send sports writers out to cover all wars. You can be sure of one thing. They will go armed with pencil and paper, thinking of the story they're about to cover. Too often the birds from the city side who suddenly find themselves headed abroad forget their tools in the rush to buy a cane and spats, whereupon they immediately become journalists. Guys like Robinson remain newspaper men.

And the same goes for most of the others who crawl out of the press box and into a bomber or submarine or wherever the story may be. Somebody, a grizzled city editor no doubt, once told a young reporter that you can't beat facts, and on that basis you can play your money right on Robinson's nose. He's not going to be back there in the place or show spot.

I wonder how many generals Robinson has trailed and heckled and never let loose until they answered him. That may not work so good in a war with war censorship, but they don't rule you off for trying. And if those natives have any regard for life and limb they will scatter if Robinson comes boiling out of a plane or press conference, or wherever, and is headed for the cable office to do some filing. He won't run around them. He will run right up their backs, as he used to do at Yankee stadium and the Polo grounds, covering the dressing rooms on big fights or the world series. A few natives positively won't stop him unless they've

BOXERS START TRAINING HERE

Several Bouts Of All-Star Nature On Card For Monday

One of the better fistic productions of the indoor season will be displayed Monday when Frankie Genaro, Chris Taber, Russell Baxter, Henry Jackson, Frankie Cordy and Ted Phillips meet in the last three of eight bouts, which will include Pete Carey, Johnny Carey and Bobby McEwen, localities. To fit themselves for the grueling settees the boys are now training.

Genaro hopes to "knock off" Tubor, of Niles, to even up for having been defeated by Chris at Ellwood City. Genaro was out-boxed here several weeks ago by Baxter who also dropped a decision to Taber. These victories show that Chris is good and Genaro has his work out for him. Genaro won from Baxter here recently. Baxter will fight tall, rangy, fast Jackson who hails from Steubenville.

Cordy On Calendar Frankie Cordy, of Niles, is a favorite here. In fact he appears a most promising lightweight. Phillips of Pittsburgh, will be making his first bout here. If he can stand up to Cordy he will be worth seeing in action.

Gardner is training for Percy Brown of Steubenville; Carey is preparing for Frankie Muche of Niles and Bobby McEwen is stepping into faster company in taking on Sammy Felice, a clever bantamweight.

Some of the local boys are training at the Jefferson A. C. Genaro plans to work out there several times this week. Others are prepping in the quarters formerly used by the late Jimmie Dime.

Blackburn Rites Wednesday; Louis To Be Pallbearer

(International News Service) CHICAGO, April 28.—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis was announced today as one of the pallbearers for the funeral of Jack Blackburn, Joe's trainer and close friend.

Other pallbearers will be the champion's co-managers, Julian Black and John Roxborough, Larry Amadee, Joe's new trainer; Sgt. Carl Nelson, Louis' bodyguard, and Frank A. Young, sports editor of the Chicago Defender.

Blackburn died last Friday from a heart attack after he apparently had recovered from a siege of pneumonia. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. tomorrow at Pilgrim Baptist church in Chicago.

Dempsey Passes Guard Physical

(International News Service) NEW YORK, April 28.—Jack Dempsey, boxing's ex-Manassa Mauler, has passed his physical examination for the U. S. Coast Guard, it was announced today here.

The former heavyweight champion, who was refused entrance to the regular army because of age, expects to become a physical instructor if his application is approved in Washington.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

What's cookin' in sports today?—Dale "Smookey" Dunire has autographed a United States Army Air Corps document, according to Bob Murphy, Westminster college's tub thumper. The basketballer with thumper plus now is on the inactive duty list. Unless Uncle Sam grants the athlete permission to complete his course, he's a junior now, Dale will be in khaki instead of cage togs by next fall . . .

Sylvan Heights will again be the scene for the annual Western Pennsylvania Public Links tourney, an authoritative source has informed me. Because of the fine manner in which the local committee supervised last season's contests, moguls snubbed precedent by naming New Castle for a second consecutive year . . .

Ted Lach, as good a 16-year-old golfer as you'll find along any course in the country, is in mid-season form already. Even before the flags were flying along the first nine at Sylvan Heights, the high school athlete covered the 18-hole expedition in 70, two below par. Manager Sam Haycock reports . . .

At Piccola, one of a dozen vets at John Carroll university in Cleveland, is on the hand for spring football drills now underway. The seventh warder is a back. . . . Gene "Spotty" Reda, located at Camp Wallace, Texas, pens greetings to the sports folks here. So do "Musty" Isabella and Andy Esposito from the same camp. The localities are starting in softball . . .

Nomination for the flop team of the early weeks of baseball: Cincinnati. . . . The surprise team? Cleveland. . . . Thus far, Lou Boudreau is doing the classiest bit of managing in the game. If the Indians miss Bob Feller, they're not showing it. . . . "Red" Ruffing and Teddy Lyons, two of the oldest pitchers in baseball, from point of service, have each copped 245 mound victories . . .

From New York comes reports that basketball will be rationed next season. Unless the transportation problem is settled, they won't have to bother. . . . Catcher Rick Ferrell, of the Browns, terms Bob Munciel "the best pitcher to come into the American league since Bob Feller" . . .

Harry Sketchley, Chicago White Sox outfielder, was discovered by Joe E. Brown, the movie comedian. . . . Fiddler Bill McGee is way ahead of schedule. The Giant pitcher copped the first decision on April 15, thus beating his last season mark by four months. Last year, McGee, tasted victory for the first time on August 14. . . .

DOWN THE MIDDLE MIDLAND ARMY FLYING SCHOOL, Tex.—When Charles V. Wilson, of Odd, Va., pitched baseball for Randolph-Macon College, he mixed 'em up with curves. Now he is Cadet Wilson at Midland Army Flying school, where bombardiers of the U. S. Army Air Force are trained to drop 'em straight "down the middle" to the bomb target.

CHICAGO CUBS
TOP CINCY, 4-3

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 28.—The Cleveland Indians brought their threat to the New York Yankees into the east today for the first time this season, and the east was eager to see what is making them click under their new and youthful manager, Shortstop Lou Boudreau.

Winner of eight straight, the club which has been through all sorts of disappointments, ridicule and man-sual storms in the last few seasons apparently is out to play ball this time. The change is reflected in the American league standings, with Boudreau's belters and the Yanks deadlocked for leadership. Each has won nine and lost three so far.

The Indians opened today against the hapless Philadelphia Athletics on the latter's home grounds, while the Yanks entertained the down-trodden St. Louis Browns here in feature games as the schedule was resumed after an off-day yesterday.

In other American league hits, Detroit played at Boston and Chicago at Washington.

The Yankees and Indians will encounter each other for the first time this season on May 6 at Yankee stadium, with the champions no doubt pleased to reflect on that fact that they won't encounter Bob Feller, whose entry into the service apparently has not had too much bearing on the tribe's fortunes so far. They will miss their stoutest hurler before the season is over, but right now are breezing as though they never knew he existed.

Cubs Win, 4-3
Over in the National league, play was resumed with the eastern clubs in the west after a lone game of yesterday when the Chicago Cubs beat the Cincinnati Reds 4 to 3 in 11 innings on a pair of singles by Stan Hack and Rookie Len Merullo. Johnny Vander Meer being the loser of his second game against one victory.

In today's games, the leading Brooklyn Dodgers, with 11 wins after three losses, encountered the Reds at Cincinnati, while those perennial contenders and potential champions, the Cardinals, entertained the New York Giants.

Boston played at Chicago and Philadelphia at Pittsburgh.

There's one bat in baseball which can be heard in practically every major league orchard.
Joe Gordon, New York Yankee star infielder, swings that bludgeon. Yankee Joe currently is smashing the apple at an incredible .447 gait to easily lead the swatting derby. His nearest opponent, teammate "Bill" Dickey, is clouting at a .421 pace.

In the opposite circuit, Terry Moore, the likeable St. Louis Cardinal ace, is setting the pace with a .366 reading, followed by Walker, of the Dodgers, with .357. Stan Spencer, Washington surprise package, is blasting at a .390 pace, and has driven in 16 runs.

Marble Tournament Plans Being Made

Annual Nibs Classic Is To Be Staged In Ellwood Again This Year

ELLWOOD CITY, April 28.—That wasn't a cyclone or a tornado in Ellwood City last night. It was just Bill and Joe and Tom and the rest of the lads, tearing the house down to find last year's favorite shooter and get started in this year's tournament.

On playgrounds—in back yards—in parks—yes, even on Mom's best rug, there was a year-rounding city of "Knuckle Down" as Young Ellwood City prepared to do battle in the annual nibs classic.

The nibsters have learned there's really something to fight for this year, for as announced in school the 1942 nibs king from this city will be entered in the Western Finals of the National Nibs Tournament at Cleveland, Ohio, June 14-18.

This year's tournament as Cleveland is going to be just the finest ever offered, and the nibs kings of former years will tell you that that's going some!

The champs are going to live at famous University School in University Heights. Tournament rings will be built right on the lawn of the school. The nibsters are going to have full use of the huge swimming pool day and night, and they're going to have a full four days program of entertainment. High spots include a trip to League Park to see the Cleveland Indians battle the Washington Senators; a show at Loew's State theater; in downtown Cleveland; a trip to Euclid Beach Park with all its countless amusements, swimming parties, ping-pong tournaments and a bang-up banquet with all the trimmings.

The tournament, of course, is open to all boys and girls 14 years of age or under. It doesn't cost a penny. Here's how you can enter: Just go to your Physical Education teacher at your school and you will be taken care of during the regular school recreation period. All school winners will receive medals and the city Champion besides representing Ellwood City in Cleveland will receive a beautiful trophy and a cash prize.

Every kid in town is urged to practice as it takes plenty of practice to become a champion.

Milk Dealers Discuss Gas Rationing Plan

ELLWOOD CITY, April 28.—The Milk Dealers Division of the Chamber of Commerce met in the Chamber rooms with President Ed. Smith presiding. After considerable discussion on the gasoline rationing program to be put into effect throughout the country the milk dealers in the Ellwood City district will hand into the Federal authorities the amount of gasoline used in last year's delivery of milk.

Local dealers definitely feel that they are a part of the health program of the country and do not wish to be left out of the defense picture as they were when the Price Administration in Washington left the milk dealers out of the tire picture.

All milk dealers expressed the opinion that unless milk users all over the country round up all their stray milk bottles in the basements and other places around their home, an acute shortage of milk bottles will take place and the ultimate result will mean a charge on all bottles.

Trading Light; Market Is Easy

Slight Declines Are Recorded In Most Of Leading Stocks

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 28.—The stock market continued to ease today in an extension of yesterday's late sell-off on President Roosevelt's anti-inflation message. Trading was light and declines in most instances were limited to fractional proportions. A few scattered issues bucked the trend for modest gains.

Continental Baking preferred tumbled 3 points to a new low of 77. Other bear targets were American Water Works preferred, down 3½ points; U. S. Gypsum preferred, down 4, and Engineers Public Service 5 per cent preferred, off 3. All were at new bottoms.

American Telephone again was under pressure, losing 1½ to 104½, lowest price since 1935. General Foods preferred was another to lose more than a point.

Lesser declines were shown by Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Union Carbide, United Aircraft, Montgomery Ward and Texas Co.

West Penn Electric 6 per cent preferred recovered 2 points.

JAPS LOSE SEVEN PLANES IN ATTACK ON PORT DARWIN

burst as they were stripped down it far as to render many points vulnerable.

Gen. MacArthur reported that light air activity and intermittent shelling continued at Corrigidor, American fortress in Manila bay.

On the island of Luzon, it was disclosed, the Japanese began a movement toward the southern end of Cagayan valley. On the islands in the Visayan Sea Jap action was limited to control of coastal areas.

There has been no change in the situation at Mindanao, it was said.

Three of the Japanese planes shot down over Darwin were bombers, while the other four were fighters.

One of the fighters shot down crashed into the sea with its guns still blazing, indicating that the pilot had died at the controls.

Japs In Formation Flight

Monday's attack on Darwin was the first occasion on which the Japs used a formation flight which they favored in bombing assaults on Singapore.

The Japs used 17 bombers and nine fighters. The bombers swept over Port Darwin in five flights. Four times they used formations of three bombers. On the fifth flight they used five.

Defending anti-aircraft fire helped the United Nations airmen take a toll of the Jap planes.

American and Australian bombers were credited with downing at least two of the bombers and two fighters.

Reports received from an advanced United Nations base revealed that aerial warfare around New Guinea is increasing, with the Japanese bringing in more fighter support.

Japs Lose Heavily

Recent heavy losses by enemy aircraft account for the larger numbers of fighters being employed by the Japanese, said the assaults have proved extremely costly compared with the little damage that have inflicted.

In Saturday's attack on Port Darwin the Japs lost 11 of their 33 planes which participated, a ratio far too costly to be maintained.

Jap assaults in the Port Moresby area, site of the advanced United Nations base at New Guinea, appear to be made with the hope that United Nations fighter opposition can be crushed preparatory to an all-out Nipponese attack. The reports indicate Jap air and ground reinforcements may have arrived at the enemy's advanced bases.

At Rabaul, New Britain island, where several transport vessels recently have been observed.

In this connection, it is pointed out, Rabaul has been one of the chief targets of United Nations fliers who have scored many successes in bombing the Jap air base and harbor facilities there, damaging shipping and destroying large numbers of grounded planes.

Meanwhile from Port Moresby came a report that American forces now based on the Free French controlled island of New Caledonia beat off several attempts by Japanese planes to reach the island.

Lieutenant George Kiser, a Kentuckian, brought his personal bag of Japanese planes to five, and possibly six, in the Darwin dog fights.

Another American, Lieut. Donald Morse, of Maine, got one Zero fighter, bringing his score of destroyed enemy planes to six.

Lieut. Kiser, in relating his part in the aerial battle, said:

"I climbed 300 feet over the Japanese until I was right in the sun. I picked up the first formation and blew the engine right out of one. I saw a second burst into flames and poured a burst of fire into another Zero as he came for me. I dodged another which Morse promptly dropped."

EDITOR'S NOTE: In his last speech, Hitler accused the Royal Air Force of purposely attacking irreparable historic monuments in the ancient Hanseatic City of Lübeck to the exclusion of all military objectives. He promised "blow for blow" reprisals and the Nazis have already raided Bath, the historic resort town, and the English cathedral cities of Exeter and Norwich.

Report Hitler Plans To Wreck Historic Spots

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 28.—Reuter's (British) News Agency circulated a dispatch today reporting that Adolf Hitler is mapping a campaign to wreck every possible historic spot in England.

The agency quoted a dispatch appearing in the Basle (Switzerland) National Zeitung to the effect that a Berlin spokesman announced that German historians are compiling a list of British castles, tudor mansions, country homes and sanatoriums suitable for "reprisals."

EDITOR'S NOTE: In his last speech, Hitler accused the Royal Air Force of purposely attacking irreparable historic monuments in the ancient Hanseatic City of Lübeck to the exclusion of all military objectives. He promised "blow for blow" reprisals and the Nazis have already raided Bath, the historic resort town, and the English cathedral cities of Exeter and Norwich.

False Security
"A sense of utterly false security exists in the private automobile owner's mind as he believes he can ride in the bus, street car or train when his car is gone."

The statement said in effect that this will not be possible since to make enough extra buses, street cars and trains "the national industrial effort would have to be turned from tanks and planes to buses, street cars, trains and trucks."

Pointing out that three out of every four workers depend on their own automobiles to get to their jobs, the statement said:

"If all of the 33,000,000 motor vehicles operating in the United States were equipped with new tires today, motor transportation would disappear entirely by the fall of 1944. If they are not all equipped with new tires, creeping paralysis would set in long before that date."

Eastman said that the average number of passengers per car at present is less than two, including the driver, where most cars can carry five. He said that the cars must be conserved to outlast the war.

Other federal officials in Washington are looking to the possibilities of gasoline rationing as a means of curbing travel. A temporary rationing plan will go into effect in the east coast states May 15, and then be replaced by a permanent system July 1. It was learned that the permanent system may be modeled after the Canadian plan, which limits motorists to 5,000 miles of travel a year.

Jacqueline Cochran, the woman flyer, has established at least 17 aviation records.

RUSSIA MOVES TO KNOCK FINLAND OUT OF WAR NOW

The Helsinki radio said that it was "not surprising" the Red army was breaking through in Lapland because "hordes of Soviet troops are hurled incessantly against our lines."

(A German high command communiqué also acknowledged that the Nazi and Finnish forces were engaged in "stubborn defensive fighting" on the Lapland sector, although it claimed extensive Russian losses.)

New Red Successes

Russian armies also registered new successes in the Staryia Russa-Novgorod area south of Leningrad, on the central front near Bryansk, and south in the Crimea.

The regular Soviet communiqué today said nothing of importance occurred overnight, but a supplement told of desperate Nazi counter-attacks at several sectors of the central front. Although the German forces were supported by aircraft and tank formations, repeated attempts to drive a wedge in Soviet lines during the last two days were repulsed and a thousand Germans were killed, the report said.

Reports Atrocities

Meanwhile, Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov disclosed that he had delivered a note to all foreign ambassadors and ministers to Russia charging Germany with a "premeditated policy" of atrocities in occupied areas of the Soviet Union.

The atrocities, Molotov said, "were not isolated incidents, but have been planned in detail and carried out by the German high command."

German armies razed 337 villages and "practically destroyed" another 928 in the Moscow region and leveled 316 inhabited localities in the Tula area, the foreign commissar declared.

Nazi offenses were classified into seven categories: wholesale plunder of occupied territories; complete destruction of villages and their populations; transfer of Soviet land to German "occupants and landlords"; imposition of "slave labor and serfdom" on Russian workers and peasants; enforced transport of Russians to Germany "where they are treated as prisoners of war"; suppression of Russian culture, and "torturing to death" of Russian guerrillas and "mass executions of Soviet citizens."

PRICE FREEZING ORDER IS READY

to Washington for conferences. The price of these meetings has been so complete that officials say not a single item has been overlooked.

However, it is believed that price controls will not be extended to cover all farm products at this time. Legal restrictions block price fixing that would result in returns to farmers of less than 110 percent of parity. Complete control of farm prices will be postponed for some time and will be based on future legislation.

President Roosevelt's plan to regulate the nation's living costs during the war failed to halt demands for labor legislation and precipitated sharp controversy in congress.

Reaction To President's Message

Immediate reactions included:

1. Demands for legislation curbing labor unions and suspension of the 40-hour week were renewed.

2. Leaders of the "farm bloc" served notice that they will battle against revision of the price control law to make 100 percent of parity the maximum price on farm products. The maximum now is 110 percent of parity.

3. Congressional tax experts privately opposed a $25,000 limit on income, while at the same time endorsed the president's request for legislation to prevent exorbitant war profits.

4. A senate group which has advocated total mobilization of resources agreed to suspend its efforts temporarily, but said that if Mr. Roosevelt's plan fails, a new drive for legislation will be opened.

Senate leaders sought to dissuade Sen. Tom Connally (D. Tex., from moving for consideration of his bill authorizing seizure of strike-bound plants for fear that it would precipitate a free-for-all fight over labor legislation.

Air Corps Cadets from Tulsa and Muskogee moved in and took over patrol duties and maintenance of order.

The Red Cross set up a complete emergency organization to assist in rescue work, the re-uniting of families and the identification of victims.

Hospitals Filled

Hospitals in Pryor soon were filled and ambulance hurried the desperately injured to cities in some cases as far distant as 75 miles. Thirteen bodies were reported at Wagoner Okla., none of them identified at the time.

The U. S. Engineers, 150 of them, were under the command of Maj. R. C. Kimball and they soon demonstrated their trained efficiency not only in launching the work of rehabilitation, but in caring for the injured and homeless.

The tornado struck with sudden fury late yesterday and as suddenly abated, its force apparently dispersing as it traveled eastward. It hit with most devastating effect in the business section where four or five blocks practically every store was demolished.

Effect Of British Bombing Air Raids Discussed By Expert

Editor's Note: The importance of British bombing attacks on German production centers is discussed in the following article by Major Paul C. Raborg, noted military analyst and author of "Mechanized Might."

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
Written Especially for International News Service

NEW YORK, April 28.—The intense R. A. F. bombardments of Nazi factory centers is a war against production rather than front line positions. Nothing is more important than this type of offensive because from line positions are "hamstrung" in direct proportion to war material destroyed.

Shows Increased Strength
The great increase in strength of Britain's air attacks indicates several things.

First, the empire's production of both planes and pilots on the British Isles has undoubtedly reached maximum capacity as we are told that in the past few days the R. A. F. attacks have been greater in volume than at any time during the year.

Secondly, the Royal Air Force is carrying the fight to the very heart of the enemy in order to stop the offensive and cripple the Axis to the greatest possible extent before Hitler launches his own spring attacks.

Thirdly, since the British day bombing is confined to French coastal locations, it indicates clearly that the British high command is taking no chances of an Axis invasion of the British Isles.

Long Range Artillery

Bombing airplanes are in reality nothing but extremely long-range artillery having the great advantage of accuracy in that the projectile is literally placed on the target by hand. In World War I, after it had assumed the pattern of trench fighting, all major attacks were preceded by intense artillery bombardment in order to accomplish the destruction of the enemy's defense systems. Today, due to the extensive use of bomber planes as long range artillery, destruction programs can be carried out in the very heart of the enemy's territory as well as against front line positions.

The airplane as an artillery weapon opens up an entirely new scope of area of operations, as no cannon, for example, could possibly shoot from London to Berlin.

However, in likening bombing airplanes to cannons, it is well to consider the difference between bombers and guns—air bombs and shells.

Difference In Attack
With guns on the ground it is possible to amass vast reserves of ammunition at the point of firing. In other words, the gun can continue its maximum rate of fire without interruption for days at a time. Against this, of course, the amount of ammunition the bombing airplane can carry on its mission of destruction is definitely limited by its weight carrying capacity. When the load of bombs has been dropped on enemy targets, the killing effect of that particular instrument of war must stop until that bomber has gone to its home base for more fuel and ammunition and then again returned to the target. This may involve hours or days.

However, this cessation of fire can be very largely overcome by sending successive waves of bombers to the attack. The Axis nations are beginning to realize this possibility with their knowledge that our production of planes and pilots can be so vast that our future offensive air operations will be terrifically more deadly and intense than any that have yet occurred in this present world war.

Explosive Difference

In the comparison of bombs and shells the average projectile fired from a cannon contains a high explosive charge weighing perhaps 10 to 25 per cent of the total weight of the shell. Bombs usually contain a much larger percentage of explosive charge, as a rule amounting to perhaps 50 per cent of the total weight of the bomb. Thus it may be seen that with bombs and shells of a comparable size the high explosive content of the bomb is much greater.

However, this does not of necessity mean greater destruction power. In the case of bombs against unprotected troops in other words human flesh, the destruction capacity is much greater. But this is not so against solid substances such as fortifications, steel-concrete buildings, etc., because no bomb has the penetrating capacity as has the same size shell.

Take for example a 500-pound bomb which has been dropped from an altitude of 20,000 feet. It strikes the earth with a possible speed of 900 feet per second. Whereas, a shell of the same weight fired from a cannon will strike its objective perhaps with a speed of 2,700 feet per second, or in other words three times as fast as the bomb. But because of this added speed the shell in reality strikes its target with about ten times the penetrating power of the bomb of the same weight.

This bomb hitting power is even less in the case of a dive-bomber because the plane itself must be pointed at its target. Therefore, in order to gain accuracy the pilot of necessity flies closer to the earth with the result that the average speed of bombs from dive bombers on hitting is only about 450 feet per second. Again, deadly destructive against troops, but not so much so against strong fortifications.

Bobbypins And Hairpins Are Hit By War

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—The war hit hairpins and bobbypins Monday.

The War Production Board issued an order cutting production of both types of hair fasteners 50 per cent during the 90-day period beginning April 25.

At the same time, the WPB ordered that, beginning May 6, no manufacturer can produce a metal hairpin or bobbypin longer than two inches. Metal hairpins now range from one and one-half to four inches long. Bobbypins now average about one and seven-eighths inches.

Effective at once, metal hairpins may not be sold by a manufacturer in packages containing more than 99 hairpins.

Even the thickness of bobbypins was hit by the order. Bobbypins made of high carbon steel wire, sometimes ran as thick as .055 inches, but the order limited them to a gauge of .035 inches or less.

Alien-Owned Trade-Marks Will Be Seized

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 28.—Alien Property Custodian Leo T. Crowley today told the Senate patents committee that the government plans to seize all alien-owned copyrights and trade marks as well as patents.

"We have already received requests to take action to permit the translation of works, the rights of which are held by enemy aliens," said Crowley. "This action is to be taken in order that these works may be available in English for war work."

"We propose to take action in all cases whether the rights are held by enemy neutral or allied aliens. This will be done if for no other reason than that the holder of copyright or trade mark is not in a physical position to exercise control over it."

"Hand me down my blackout cane," the up-to-date dandy may hum as he sets out for a stroll along war-time darkened streets. This cane, shown by Miss Loretta Hynes of Chicago's Merchandise Mart, is a transparent plastic rod which is virtually unbreakable. The battery unit is contained in the handle, also of plastic.

AROUND CITY HALL

Should the city and Mike Scanlon, Seventh Ward, be unable to reach an amicable agreement as to what the city should pay Mr. Scanlon for his land west of Montgomery street, council will ask the county court to name viewers, it was announced in council meeting in city hall Monday.

The city foresees the time when the state highway will be a 100-foot wide stretch and will be required to acquire some of Scanlon's land, hence it was deemed best to bring the proposition to a head. Some time ago the city acquired a parcel of land from the Bender heirs for the same purpose.

Upon recommendation of Safety Director David O. Davies council referred the salary of Miss Betty Orr, second deputy to City Treasurer C. C. McKibben to a joint committee composed of Finance Director Albert Hoyland of council and Dr. W. Fulton Jackson, member of the school board. This move was suggested by City Solicitor Robert White. He said it was necessary according to a state law.

When the monthly salary of $165, voted Second Deputy Earl Reeves was set it was a personal arrangement—that is set for Reeves and not the office, White reported. He suggested that it would be best if the salary was set for the office. Reeves resigned recently and was succeeded by Miss Orr who has been employed in the city treasury.

Council was informed that the school board could not be charged for paying Cascade street at the Croton avenue school and for the paving of DuShane street at the Ben Franklin junior high school. The amount of the liens was over $1,700. An exoneration was ordered by council at their city hall meeting.

Council voted permission for Police Sergeant Dent Shields to return to his police duties, as of April 16. He obtained a leave of absence when called as a radioman, second class, by the U. S. Navy. He made several trips on the U. S. Greer to Iceland. However, because of his health he was discharged honorably from service and is now acting as a desk sergeant at police headquarters.

J. K. Love of the Shenango Pottery told council the pottery had paved a driveway. He added that a dust situation has arisen that is a health menace and also affects products at the plant. He asked the city council to have the city sweeper work there when needed. The request was referred to the Streets Director James Gibson.

Providing the Lawrence County Historical society conforms to the provisions of a state law the city will appropriate $250.00, as requested by the organization recently. The society must be incorporated, have two hundred paid members and hold public meetings.

Girls Following Soldier Boys To Camps Is Report

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 28.—Girls who refuse to kiss their soldier boys goodbye are causing no end of trouble for New York police.

Acting Captain John G. Stein of the Missing Persons Bureau revealed today that a large number of young girls for whom his department has been searching for months apparently had gone away with their soldier boyfriends.

"While 'not serious,' Captain Stein described the increase in the number of cases in which the teen-age girls follow uniformed sweethearts back to army camps as 'considerable,' many of the girls, he figures, have obtained jobs near the camps.

"The most difficult cases," he said, "are not those who follow a neighborhood boy, but those who meet a soldier or sailor on leave for the first time, become infatuated with him and simply disappear when he does."

And the police official listed a dozen cases to prove his point.

G.N.C.A. Membership Campaign Showing Good Progress Already

With the campaign barely under way, memberships in the Greater New Castle Association are coming in at a satisfactory rate. Chairman Richard E. Rentschler today said the association is divided into twenty-two teams each team having some division of the GNCA setup.

To join the association or to renew a membership it is not necessary to wait for a solicitor to call. Members or potential members can mail their checks into the association offices in the Castle Hotel or can stop there in person.

Seventeen Divisions
There are seventeen divisions of the G. N. C. A., the whole of them including every line of endeavor in the city or county. Industry, labor, merchants, attorneys, utilities, builders and contractors, teachers, truck transport, railroads, realty agents, insurance and miscellaneous lines, all have their representation upon the board.

Since its organization four years ago the Greater New Castle Association has accomplished much for the city. New industries have been secured, others here have expanded, and the association has had a part in all of it. The most recent piece of work the association did was to raise $35,000 for the purchase of the scrap rights upon the old steel mill site. Checks will be in the mail to contributors with in a few days returning the contributions one hundred percent.

A number of people who subscribed to the fund have asked if they could leave their refund checks with the association to pay dues for next year or to aid the industrial development fund. This can be done by endorsing the check back to the Greater New Castle Association.

TOO MANY CLAIMANTS
(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla.—Miami police displayed the wisdom of Solomon recently in disposing of 17 fat Rhode Island hens dropped by a chicken thief who eluded capture.

When the officers tried to return the hens to their rightful owner they discovered actually dozens of persons who had lost 17 fat Rhode Island hens.

When the various claimants were unable to agree among themselves, the police decided to keep the hens and feed them to the city jail prisoners.
